Samuel Hankin, co-owner; Jules Yellin, builder; Moe Henry Han-kin, co-owner; Albert M. Greenfield, chairman of board, Bankers Security, and Perch Hankin, co-owner.

Land-Fill Method Of Disposal Cited For Its Economy

The ease, efficiency and cheap-ness of sanitary land fill as a method of disposal was stressed last night at the Bucks County Planning Commission's discussion series.

The topic, "Water Supply, Sew-erage and Refuse Disposal", was the fifth in a series of planning panels for area municipal officials. Herman L. Otto, executive sec-etary of the Lower Bucks County Branch of the Pennsylvania Econ-omy League, said that the land fill method is four times cheaper than the incinerator method. John M. Custer, president of Falls Township supervisors, explained that it was not even necessary for his commu-nity to buy land. Instead, the community rented it. Falls Township is the only township in all of Bucks County to implement the sanitary landfill method.

Acres Rented
"We've rented 20 acres, and it will be sufficient for our needs for the next ten years," he said. "And not only is it serving our purposes now, but when we are finished with it, it will be an im-proved land, suitable for building on." The area in use was formerly a swamp.

James H. Allen, consulting en-gineer, emphasized the importance of an expert study of the physical features of the land before the ac-tual layout of water and sewerage systems, and before any money is expended by the community.

Echoes Advice
Louis F. Fluge, of the Bensalem Township Authority, echoed Allen's advice. He also pointed out that local authorities should get togeth-er to build needed facilities. This would spread costs over a larger group of taxpayers, he said, and would therefore cost each resident less.

The aid of the Planning Com-mission in giving advice for such approvals was offered by Franklin Wood, executive director. Next Wednesday's panel will be the last in the series. It will be en-titled "How Local and County Planning Can Assist Local Govern-ment."

Offers Local Support

Senator Watson offered the coun-ty organization's support to the local candidates and commit-tees. Describing achievements of the state legislature, he upheld the Pennsylvania sales tax, saying that it is used for education and has prevented school districts from be-coming bankrupt.

Asked about special measures on the Nov. 3 ballots, the senator said his committee has taken no stand on the proposed Bucks County Health Department. He criticized the proposed constitutional con-vention, however, saying its backers "want to raise the debt limit and to be able to pass a graduated in-come tax."

County-wide candidates intro-duced at the meeting included John A. Collins, of Falls Township, seek-ing office as recorder of deeds. Col-lins, backed by the Republican committee, emerged victorious in the primary election.

Praises Support

Acknowledging his support by the party workers, he said: "I know that everything will be all right for us in the election Tues-day, if we have the same support I had in the primary."

Tullytown Committeeman Wil-liam Heidrick, introducing his slate of candidates, described his com-mittee's campaign work. "We have made it a point to visit every voter in the borough," he said. "We have been campaigning for three months."

Other candidates were introduced from Falls Township, Morrisville, Yardley, and Lower Makefield Township.

Men's Club To Aid Hallowe'en Fete

Members of the Fairless Hills Men's Club made plans for partici-pation in the community's Hallowe'en parade on Friday at last night's meeting. The men met at the Fairless Hills Methodist Church.

They will guide paraders along the route with lighted flares, Charles Walp, publicity chairman, said. The club will also help in assembling children for judging at the end of the parade.

Walp said the group made plans for operating the senior canteen on Friday nights in co-operation with the Family Home and Living Committee of the Fairless Hills Women's Club. The canteen pro-vides teen-agers with a place to dance.

Last night's meeting concluded with movies, games and refresh-ments of cider and doughnuts.

BATH STREET CRASH

One car was slightly damaged in an early morning two-car col-lision on Bath street, Bristol Bor-ough Police reported. Lawrence J. Dalaney, Jr., 349 Monroe street, Bristol, was driving south on Bath street, when his auto was struck by the car driven by Lewis Fir-man, 604 Clymer street, Bristol, as Firman turned out of Buckley street. Damage was limited to the left rear fender of Dalaney's car.

drivers that they will give five days notice before terminating their jobs if they desire to do so."

Gallagher said reference to the "five days" was a trick. He said each driver individually was asked a query "Will you give five-days notice before you quit?" Gallagher said the drivers answered the question as it stood and said they would give such notice.

Pratt, secretary for the school bus drivers, said his group first approached the School Board in early March through a letter re-questing an audience with them to discuss a wage increase. Pratt said the letter was "completely ignored." A second letter sent in April was also ignored, he said.

Then in early August the drivers attended a School Board meet-ing and asked a wage increase. Pratt said, and pointed out the Board said the matter would be given consideration. He said drivers were given a 2-cent-an-hour increase in September.

Drivers Organize

Pratt said the drivers decided to unionize and that "every driver signed up." He said a telegram ad-dressed to the School Board re-questing a special meeting to hear bus drivers' grievances was ig-nored.

Early this month the drivers at-tended a School Board meeting asking the board to negotiate with them. School Directors said they believed they could not legally ne-gotiate with a union, but said they would ask an opinion in the mat-ter from Dr. Francis B. Haas, state superintendent of public instruc-tion.

Later School Board President Straub said he had received a re-ply from Dr. Haas, but that he would not divulge its contents until the School Board met with union representatives.

A negotiating committee of the bus drivers met with School Board Solicitor John P. Betz Tuesday. Betz told the drivers he did not know what the reply from Harris-burg was.

Straub said yesterday the School Board felt it could not negotiate with a union or enter into a labor contract. He said this position was confirmed by the School Board solicitor and by the Attorney Gen-eral's office at Harrisburg.

Gallagher said this morning the School Board "flatly refused" to meet with the drivers tonight to discuss their request for union recognition.

Gallagher said the refusal was announced by Clarence H. Young, school board secretary. Drivers will meet tonight in the United Automobile Workers hall at 1508 Farragut avenue, Bristol, to decide on a course of action, Gal-lagher said.

Chance for 'Hero of Year' Looms For Bristol Woman on TV Program

Mrs. Clair Snyder, 127 Mulberry street, Bristol, may be chosen "Hero of the Year" by the CBS-TV pro-gram, The Wheel of Fortune, when it celebrates its first birthday on the air Nov. 6.

The "Hero of the Year" — one hero, chosen from all who have appeared on the program through-out the year — will be deluged with gifts of all kinds. Honorable men-tions for "Hero of the Year," and the surprise in store for them, will also be announced on the Nov. 6 program. Mrs. Snyder was honored on the program last February for her unselfish devotion to others. She is always on the lookout for those in need — helps blind people around town, baby-sits gratis, cheers up hospitalized neighbors.

Mrs. Dorothy Brill, 197 Chapman avenue, who recommended her on the program, knows of Mrs. Syn-der's generosity first-hand. While Mr. Brill was in the service, Mrs. Snyder escorted his wife to the hospital, cared for her and her children, and then — when Mrs. Brill recovered — took charge of the household when the Brills took a second honeymoon.

struck the tree he was deluged with hundreds of fish that shifted forward at the moment of impact.

In the second New Hope accident, a gravel laden truck driven by Clarence Brown, Jr., 22, of Falls-ington, overturned a mile west of town when the left front tire burst. Brown told police that he was headed for New Hope when the accident occurred. The deflated tire pulled the truck off Windy Bush road and before Brown could regain control of the machine it tore through 60 feet of guard rail and ran down an eight foot em-bankment.

Assisted By Motorists

Brown was assisted from the vehicle by passing motorists. He suffered bruises and brush burns of the face, arms and legs. The truck was owned by the New Hope Sand and Gravel Co.

Of the three Bristol township accidents reported by Chief Stew-art, one resulted in the hospitali-zation of a seven-year-old boy, Ronald Siengo, of 2408 Nelson Court, Bristol.

According to the police report, the boy was riding a bicycle be-tween two parked cars on Green lane near the Bristol pike when he was struck by a car driven by John Harmsen, 27, of Fleetwing road, Bristol township.

THEFT . . . IN A SAFE
DEPOSIT BOX AT THE
FARMERS NATIONAL

The legal evidence of much that you possess is on paper which can easily get lost or misplaced, stolen or destroyed by fire (see list at right). Besides these papers, you probably have other cherished possessions that money could not buy . . . letters, heirloom jewelry and so forth.

Why take chances on the distress and inconvenience that may be caused by the loss of valuable papers and possessions — when you can have the safety and convenience of a Safe Deposit Box? Massive steel and concrete vaults guard your treasured possessions from the hazards of fire, loss and theft.

Because your deposit box cannot be opened without your key, access to the box is permitted only to yourself or someone you designate; and the contents may be examined or removed by you in completely private booths. Contents of the box are unknown to us.

A limited number of boxes in various sizes are now avail-able. Rates are surprisingly low — we'll be glad to give you complete information on request.

Name of Korson Off Ballot For Election Judge

The name of Bernie Korson has been removed from the Democratic ballot in the race for judge of elections in the sixth ward of Bristol Township, announcements from Doylestown have revealed.

Frank Kleha, vice-chairman of the Levittown Democratic Party, charged that this was "ignoring the clearly expressed wishes of the electorate" and an "intentional slight."

The change was made because of the division of the sixth ward into two precincts, Kleha explained. As a result, ballots in the two precincts will not list any candidates for either party for judge of elections.

GOP Man Picked
However, Kleha said, Korson's Republican opponent was named acting judge of elections in the first precinct, but Korson himself was ignored.

"In the primary election, Korson was properly nominated by voters who obviously wish to have him serve in that capacity," Kleha said. "Now they find that their efforts to nominate him have been in vain. Further, he has been discriminated against in naming acting judges of election."

"Our attorneys tell us that this is entirely legal but I still do not see that it in any way expresses the wishes of the people, as an election should," he went on. "Unfortunately neither Korson nor the Levittown Democratic Party has sufficient funds to appeal the decision, but if this is in accordance with the law I believe that law should be changed."

Write-In Is Urged
Kleha urged voters to write Korson's name in as judge of elections. "If anyone deserves the support of the people of Levittown," he went on, "it is Bernie Korson. If anyone is qualified to be judge of elections it is Korson, who has shown himself time and again to be fearless and ready to battle for what he thinks is right."

Kleha went on to list the numerous accomplishments of Korson as chairman of the health and safety committee of the Levittown Civic Association since its inception. These included installation of stop signs, establishment of speed limits in Levittown, circulation of petitions for street lights and many other notable achievements.

Calls It 'Slight'
"This is a matter for all...I Levittown to be concerned about," he stated. "It is a considered slight of the civic association and the residents and voters."

"I do not wish to cast any reflection on the qualifications of anyone the commissioners have appointed," he said, "but I will make one statement. The commissioners are in the majority Republican. The Republican party has shown in other instances that it does not wish Levittown residents to enjoy any political rights."

Hospital Donors Get Right To Vote On New Directors

All who have contributed and pledged to the Lower Bucks County Hospital fund, to date, will be able to vote at the 1953 election of a board of directors. The voting procedure was established at a meeting of the board called by Board President James E. Harris. The hospital by-laws state that two candidates for each position are to be nominated by a committee chosen from the board of directors. The board executive committee decided that each year the seven members to be elected will be chosen as follows: two from industry, two from organized labor and the balance from the public.

Listed on Ballot
All nominated candidates will be listed on the ballot, with space left for write-in candidates. Ballots will be mailed to all those who have contributed to the fund and are to be returned to the address on the ballot. Ballots must be postmarked not later than 5 p. m., Nov. 16.

The present board is as follows: Those serving terms for two more years: William E. Anderson, community, Morrisville; Albert Berdis, industry, Fairless Works; Frank Flatch, organized labor, Bristol; Mrs. Reba C. Goebig, community, Bristol Township; James E. Harris and Thomas R. Jones, industry, Superior Zinc; W. B. McCluer, industry, Rohm & Haas.

Terms Unfinished
Those whose terms have one more year: Louis Dries, merchant, Bristol Borough; Paul Forster, attorney, Bristol Borough; E. L. Helwig, industry, Rohm & Haas; Harold F. Hunter, Bristol, Farmers National Bank; Charles E. Hunter, industry, Hunter Mfg. Co.; A. E. Lewis, industry, Hunter Mfg. Co.; C. Burnley White and F. A. Simons, Cornwells Heights.

Those who served, but terms are expiring: S. D. Hackley, industry, Kaiser Metal Products; I. J. Hetherington, Sr., community, Bristol Borough; Mrs. James Hiltner, community, Lower Makefield; Mrs. Robert Sheeran, community, Newtown; John Spadacino, organized labor, Bristol Borough; Rene Tritschler, organized labor, Bristol Township, and Warren A. Jennings, community.

Mr. Leon Plavin
Auto Boys Department Store
408 Mill Street,
Bristol, Penna.

Dear Mr. Plavin:

Just a note of Congratulations to YOU for your recent ad in the DVA in which you extended Congratulations to the Levittown Shopping Center.

It is one of the best ads that I have seen in a good long time in the DVA, Courier, Phila. Inquirer or any other newspaper.

It indicates to me one of the many reasons why Auto Boys has grown so in a relatively short while.

Your advertising policy seems to be a very sound one, indeed.

Very sincerely,

Ann Dargatz
Vice President

APD/d.

Memo:

From the time I came to Bristol (15 years ago) I have been a consistent advertiser because I firmly believe that advertising is not an expense, but is rather a real capital investment.

Ladies, Interested In a Rich Spouse?

By Inez Robb

NEW YORK, Oct. 29 — (INS) — One of the most inspirational literary contests, for women only, in the nation's history is just now cranking up and getting under way.

The subject, one of the most astute in contest history is, "Why I'd Like To Marry A Millionaire." Any woman in her right mind with pen, pencil and a three-cent stamp is eligible. Age, weight and previous financial condition are no bar. The entrant does not even have to qualify with a box-top or a kernel of pop-corn bought on the way into a theatre.

Goaded by enlightened self-interest, a Hollywood movie company which by no coincidence is just releasing a picture with a name almost parallel to that of the contest subject, is sponsoring this bout of belles-lettres.

I had already assembled pencil and paper and was even making some mental notes on what to do with a millionaire around the house, when I had a canny impulse to call the movie company and ask what type millionaire was the big first prize, super-special pay-off.

It stands to reason, I figured, that a woman ought to know whether she is about to win a Tommy Manville, a Winthrop Rockefeller or a Texas-type millionaire.

Well, a vice-president of the movie company explained a little humbly that this is an impersonal, high-type, intellectual contest with no millionaires actually given away. At first I thought he meant the company was just going to give away the million without the air. But it turns out that all the winners will receive in the form of perfume, beauty kits and glamorous bathing suits.

Although this is terribly disappointing and just goes to prove how hard up Hollywood really is these days, nonetheless I think the contest is worth while.

If a woman will just sit down and figure out why she would like to marry a millionaire, she may discover that it isn't too hard to learn how to turn the trick.

Furthermore, this contest ought to help dispose, once and for all, of a lot of silly axioms floating around the country such as "money isn't everything," "can money buy happiness?" and "what this country needs is a good five-cents."

Never knock money, is my policy. I have never had any complaints about money except that there isn't enough of it and that the distribution leaves much to be desired. And what this country really needs is a good $5,000 bill on which the general public can readily get its mitts. Nickel stuff is just that and no more.

And, since I am speaking a kind word for money, there was a play on Broadway a few seasons ago by Ruth Gordon in which a stout New England character, full of wisdom and homely virtue, opined that in all his life he had never encountered any situation which was worsened by money.

Furthermore, it is our duty to love rich people, too. Ask any psychiatrist! Rich people who aren't loved become hermits, or misogynists or misers, perish for bid.

I have heard that it is just as easy to love a rich man as a poor one, and keep all the money in circulation. And even the Democrats say if we don't keep money in circulation, the nation is likely to have a depression. So it is really a girl's patriotic duty to marry a millionaire if she can.

So I am going to write the Hollywood contest editor that I want to marry a millionaire simply because I am an upstanding American who wants to share the wealth and doesn't know how to do it.

Dusting Off The News

By CHARLES O. MOLZ

The chrysanthemums are coming along, all fluffy and full, but they are not cheering up the Levittown husbands, who know that the thing that goes best with a mum is a new fur coat.

Lazy Louie from Mill street says there is no social standing in a job raking the leaves and he isn't going to go for one any more unless the WPA is restored.

Childhood is such a fascinating time, particularly when the Bristol teacher says, "Those are raindrops, my little ones, that you see outside."

The real change of season comes when the smell of burning leaves fades out along the street and the spiky smell of baking gingerbread engulfs the kitchen.

A former Bristol township police chief has been appointed a Republican committeeman. There is nothing like starting vigilance at the lowest levels.

A Halloween party for Levittown pre-school children will be given Saturday at William Penn Center. The theory that all people like to be scared was more or less exploded with the atom bomb, but this event will provide the opportunity to test it with goblins on the younger element.

A year-round war is going to be conducted against mosquitoes in Lower Bucks County. This has our approval, so long as the mosquitoes do not launch a counter offensive of the same duration.

LIEUT.-GOV. WOOD CAN TWIDDLE

State to Be Without a Governor When Fine Makes Trip to Israel

HARRISBURG, (INS) — When Gov. Fine goes to Israel next month the commonwealth will be without a chief executive, because the duties of his office will not automatically pass to Lieut. Gov. Lloyd Wood. The last governor to go abroad was George H. Earle, who went to Sweden in 1938 in connection with the 300th anniversary of the landing of Swedish colonists in North America.

Gov. Fine plans to be abroad about two weeks, but Wood's status will not be changed. The only duties which Wood may constitutionally perform involved his membership on the State Pardons Board. In Pennsylvania, unlike some states where lieutenant governors take advantage of the absence of the governor to raise political hob, the constitution effectively ties the hands of the number two man.

The constitution does not designate the lieutenant governor as a deputy governor and authorizes him to take over only in case of "death, conviction or impeachment, failure to qualify, resignation, or other disability."

WASHINGTON REPORT

By Fulton Lewis, Jr.
(Copyright, 1953,
King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

WASHINGTON, Oct. 28 — Rep. John Phillips, a touring member of the House Appropriations Committee, comes up with a fascinating tale of how the United States "cleaned" in the 1948 purchase of a new Paris Embassy from Baron Henri Rothschild.

In a letter written from the French capital to his Washington office, the California Republican says the "cleaning" involved removal of priceless fittings, antiques and art works from the building after a $2,000,000 price had been agreed upon for the purchase.

The materials, he says, all were part of the building itself, but could be removed. Cheaper new materials were substituted.

He says the removals were made possible because "an inexperienced young man" who negotiated the purchase contract on behalf of the embassy, failed to commit terms of the agreement to writing, "in a nation where even the locks on the doors are itemized in such contracts and inventories."

"I hate to get into personalities in this matter," Phillips says, "but there were several men involved who should have left the State Department rather suddenly, but who are still there, after five years."

He says the grounds may be worth the price he paid, but that the "cleaning" made the building worthless for the purpose for which the ambassador wanted it—as a residence.

Actually, he says, there was no need or reason to buy the property in the first place except that we had accumulated substantial amounts of money in European currencies after the war and "it is practically illegal to return money to the taxpayers, in the minds of experienced bureaucrats."

"So they started to spend it," he reports. "One idea was to get a big and imposing embassy residence in Paris."

He says he has himself been in the present residence at 2 Rue D'Iena on several previous trips and, like previous ambassadors, found it eminently satisfactory. But it still offered a chance to spend money, so it was decided to buy the Rothschild residence, "one of the best locations in Paris, with a magnificent garden."

"To continue the story in Phillips' words:

"The house was built in 1870. The paneling was carved oak, the decorations in gold-leaf, the statues and incidental items were in keeping with the rest, the big staircase was marble, and the ceiling had a painting by Tintoretto."

"(After the purchase), the Baron asked permission to take down the Tintoretto, and to remove 'some antiques in the basement.' This was given. Some days later, the wife of an embassy employee commented that there seemed to be a good deal of stuff coming out of the house. Investigating disclosed that the Baron was having the oak paneling removed, among other things."

"The Baron assured the ambassador that this was only the French custom, to have the paneling 'cleaned.' I think he used the right word."

"To make a longer story short, the Baron removed every bit of this priceless paneling, made gesso molds and poured in plaster of paris; then he put this up in place of the oak, and brought in a painter to stain and paint the plaster so that, in the process, it shows the 'grain' and even the scratches of the old wood. He removed the marble staircase, an enormous thing two stories high, and replaced it with a cement facsimile."

Scientist Asserts Health Depends On Nervous System

By DR. JAMES N. ROEBUCK

Prof. A. D. Speransky, Director of the Institute of Experimental Medicine in Leningrad, U. S. S. R., says in a recent book:

"We are very well aware of the fact that the nervous system exhibits its functions in the organism only by producing changes in other organs. In this respect, it always inevitably acts in dual fashion. If changes take place within the nervous system, one can be assured that they will also find their expression at the periphery. The normal cycle of reactions is altered if the normal state of the nerve is disturbed. We have convinced ourselves of this on many occasions."

This conclusion has been arrived at by Professor Speransky who has over 20 other prominent scientists associated with him. It completely affirms the chiropractic principle.

Seeks Update News

TO THE EDITOR:

Perhaps, after reading this letter, you may think me very presumptuous. I hope not, for what I have to say is meant only as a suggestion, and if you deem it worthwhile it is yours with no obligation whatsoever.

As you well know, there has been a great influx of people to this vicinity in the past few years. If my deductions are correct, the greater part or at least a good percentage, came from Upstate Pennsylvania. I believe it would be to your advantage if you would include in your paper a column of Upstate News. Even a forecast of the weather and driving conditions would be of interest because of the number of people who commute weekly.

Being an outsider myself I am also very much interested in Bristol and its history, and like many others I do not have the time to search through books and frequent libraries to satisfy my curiosity. A daily article of this type would be very interesting and educational. (I hope) this letter is received in the spirit in which it is written.

LAWTON J. VAN BUREN
(Although the BRISTOL COURIER is particularly interested in news of Lower Bucks County, the area to which "there has been a great influx of people in the past few years," it will also carry important news of Upstate Pennsylvania and news of weather and driving conditions when warranted. As for local history, may we invite your attention to the column, "Place Names in Bucks County," which appears every Friday in THE BRISTOL COURIER. — Ed.)

Raps Godfrey

TO THE EDITOR:

I have been reading in the papers and hearing on the radio about Arthur Godfrey singing Julius LaRosa. I have watched Godfrey on TV for a long time. Recently I have got tired of his conceit. Maybe he isn't as well as he wants people to believe. Then why doesn't he stay off the air and television?

Julius LaRosa is a nice boy. He didn't do anything the normal young man, getting some fame and glory, wouldn't have done. Why did Godfrey pick on him publicly on the show? Some people don't like Godfrey's jokes and I am one of those, too.

From the way he acts you would think he was one with the deity. Why doesn't somebody cut him down to his size?

Your truly,

U. S. Steel Earnings Reach New Peak At 3-4 Period

U. S. Steel Corp., the world's largest producer of steel, yesterday reported that its earnings for the first nine months of this year increased 73 percent over a year ago.

The profits for the third quarter were more than double those of last year. Net profits for the July-August-September period were $61,706,264 or $2.12 a common share. The preceding three months the figures were $55,640,806 or $1.89 a common share. During the third quarter of last year profits were $30,405,472 or .52 cents a share.

The current figures are the highest for a third quarter in 37 years, being topped only by the third quarter of 1916, when the net income amounted to $69,601,175 or $2.42 a share.

U. S. Steel showed earnings for the first nine months of $166,723,028, or $5.56 a share, against $98,158,606, or $2.96 a share, in the comparable year ago period. The nine-month net represented a return of 5.7 percent on sales compared with 4.5 percent a year ago.

Big Steel directors declared the usual dividend of 75 cents a share on the common stock, payable Dec. 10 to holders of record Nov. 6, and the regular quarterly dividend of $1.75 a share on the preferred stock, payable Nov. 20 to holders of record Nov. 4.

Vacation "Loot" of Driftwood Prized by Flower Arranger

With half a dozen hobbies to keep her well occupied throughout the year, one would think Mrs. E. M. Linforth, of Green street, Hulmeville, would relish a vacation along the coast of Maine each summer. She does, but she spends it in pursuit of one of her hobbies—collecting driftwood.

Whether she is tending her flower garden, painting in oils, searching for driftwood, or lecturing, each and all point to her first love, flower arrangement. And if, as in generally conceded, a person has "arrived" when accorded the honor of entering flower show invitation classes, Mrs. Linforth has done so. For many of her arrangements these days are in invitation classes.

Attending to the fact that all her hobbies culminate in arrangement is the fact that the Linforth attic and basement are "fairly bursting" with material—seed pods from field and tree, poke weed stalks, skeletonized leaves, and seedweed and driftwood from the seashore.

Collects Ribbons

In testimony to her outstanding ability in the field of arrangement, Mrs. Linforth has ribbons galore. For the past three years she has entered Philadelphia Flower Show, winning one first, one second, in third and an honorable mention in 1951; four first and a second in 1952; and seven ribbons in variety this year. In 1952 she was responsible for the room which won the Academy of Fine Arts award; and a year later the blue and gold Garden Federation ribbon, her composition suggested by "The Sea Around Us." For the latter her ability in the field of art off in the seashore background. For Old York Road Garden Club the Hulmeville resident did the garden which won the governor's trophy for most meritorious amateur exhibit in the entire Philadelphia show. The Old York Road Club, in turn, presented the trophy, a large silver cup, to the one responsible for the garden. "It was complicated, and meant hard work and considerable time on detail," Mrs. Linforth commented in regard to this exhibit. Not only was it necessary to attend to the forcing of bulbs and shrubs, but grass, trees, walks and accessories had to be kept in mind. Queried as to the time spent on this particular garden she "wouldn't hazard a guess." The garden measured 24 feet both in width and length, the largest dimension. The mural background which she executed was of sky and clouds.

"I believe I was the only woman from the Philadelphia area to enter the invitation class at the Philadelphia show in 1953." Her entry was a niche featuring arrangement of flowers on a pedestal. The other entrants were residents of New York area.

Entries Listed

The Philadelphia show is but one of a few in which Mrs. Linforth is usually a participant. Others which have listed her entries during the past few years are: Trevoise Horticultural Society; Strawbridge & Clothier, Jenkintown; Chestnut Hill (in 1953). For the latter she had a huge task on her shoulders—displays for five windows. In spite of the fact she was pinch-hitting for a friend, and was notified only two days in advance, she came through with three blue and two red ribbons, plus merchandise awards.

One of Many Hobbies

The one whose interests are so closely aligned with gardening and its floral products, is a member of Old York Road Garden Club; Trevoise Horticultural Society; and The Four Seasons. The latter club comprises flower arrangers in the Philadelphia area, membership being limited to 15. The group, at meetings once each month, has members submit arrangements for constructive criticism.

As to "invitation" work, Mrs. Linforth this year submitted an entry for the Woodmere Gallery (Chestnut Hill) in conjunction with an art exhibit; one at Ambler School of Horticulture; one at Trevoise; another at Langhorne Horticultural show; and one at the peony show of Phila. Horticultural Society.

She was also recipient of two trophies for two entries at the Corn Exchange Bank, Philadelphia. This show was sponsored jointly by that banking institution and the Orchid Society. The Linforth family has a power lawn mower, a sweepstakes prize from the show in Media in 1952, conducted by Business Men's Club there.

The lecture engagements, naturally, are on arrangements and along other horticultural lines. Many of her talks are in the New Jersey area at present; but she has appeared before Germantown Horticultural Society; Doylestown Nature Club; and is scheduled for the program at Trevoise Society in December on "Christmas Arrangements." The latter will be a demonstration lecture.

Ever mindful of certain spots in her home or garden where unique pieces of driftwood can be effectively used, or of arrangements for which smaller pieces will come in handy, Mrs. Linforth tramps the beaches of Maine each summer. One piece, measuring at least 2 1/2 feet both in width and length, graces her living-room. "I have been told it is a piece of cypress root, the type that was extinct 50 years ago. I lugged it along the beach for a mile." Other pieces of driftwood enhance the garden terraces at the rear of the Linforth residence. This is mainly Mr. Linforth's province—his ultimate plan being to add one or two more terraces to those he had already completed.

Grows Box Wood

"One of my horticulture hobbies is growing of English boxwood," Mrs. Linforth advised as she walked down a flight of stone steps leading to a "box." "I'm developing a method of propagating boxwood so it will be completely hardy." That she has had success along this line is shown by the bushes distributed to parts of Massachusetts, New Hampshire and Maine during the past few years. She also grows a number of rare and unusual plants.

Prior to her marriage, the Bucks countian attended Yale School of Fine Arts at New Haven, Conn., and after she was wed took an undergraduate course at Sweetbriar College, Va., teaching in the studio there. At that time Mr. Linforth was a professor at Sweetbriar. With this background she has enjoyed immensely her art work. A few years ago she did the mural for the nursery school for Princeton (N.J.) Institute for Advanced Study. Another of her murals is to be found in a Langhorne residence. A painting of which she is justly proud is a bowl of zinnias, which she executed at the age of 11. This hangs on the living-room wall. "But my first love, as far as painting is concerned, is animals—race horses and dogs—flowers are second choice," she comments.

For some time Mrs. Linforth raised tropical fish, but a fire at her home ended all that. She had as many as 20 tanks at one time, in-

"Hear ye the words of the Lord" is the challenge of God's messengers of every generation. For it is by "hearing" that we increase our faith and it is by "hearing" that God enables us to realize His promises and His will concerning our life.

The Old Testament prophets first "heard" the word of the Lord before they dared to speak before the people. They realized God's presence among them. They heard Him speak. Then and only then did they speak and act. Despite the confusion, bewilderment and unbelief of the day these men of God "heard."

I once overheard a young man complain, "God never speaks to me!" He was then instructed by his hearer that it was possible that he was not properly prepared to hear God speak.

God gave us a book which contains and proclaims the words he wishes us to hear. It is God who speaks to us in this book of all books, the Bible. "The Lord saith," "Thus saith the Lord." "These things are written that you might believe that Jesus is the Christ the Son of God, and that believing you might have life in His name." "For God so loved that world that He gave His only begotten son."

These truly are words of the Lord speaking to us. Read His book and treasure its thought forever in your hearts.

Mr. and Mrs. John McGinley and children, "Jack" and "Kathy," enjoyed a motor trip through northern Pennsylvania Sunday.

Joseph Sagolla, six-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Augustine Sagolla, 259 Jackson street, was feted Sunday afternoon at a combined Halloween and birthday anniversary party. Neshaminy Board Opens Bids On Bus, Furniture Bids for a school bus and for furniture for the school were opened at a meeting of the Neshaminy Joint School Board. The board met in the old high school building.

Bids for the furniture were referred to committee for study and purchase of the equipment. The bids for the bus will be re-advertised as bids for a bus for Lower Southampton were included in the Neshaminy bids.

Helen Giles, assistant supervisor of elementary education reported on the progress of the elementary school program. A report on the building progress of the new high school was given by Carl Cortis, member of the board's building committee. The board discussed procedure in regard to janitorial supplies.

The school board met in closed executive session immediately following the regular meeting.

Methodists View Slides at Lecture

Dr. John D. Herr, director of the Quadrennial Fund, Philadelphia Methodist Conference, showed slides and lectured about "Puerto Rico," at a meeting of Lower Bucks County Methodist Men's Fellowship held in Emille Methodist Church.

James Harris, Sr., Emille, presided over the meeting.

Plans were discussed concerning a rally of all Methodist men's groups in Lower Bucks County some time in January.

Roll call revealed 33 representatives of the following churches: Yardley, Harman, Croydon, Tullytown and Emille-Levittown.

Refreshments were served by Emille men.

Bristol Soldier Gets Promotion

James R. Ahlum, 22, son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl R. Ahlum, 3410 First avenue, West Bristol, has been promoted to the rank of corporal, according to an announcement by the public information office of the Second Infantry Division.

Cpl. Ahlum, who is a company clerk, entered the Army on Oct. 7, 1952. He holds the combat infantryman's badge, the United Nations ribbon and the Korean Forces ribbon. A former employee of Bancroft and Hickey Manufacturing Company, Bristol, Cpl. Ahlum attended Bristol High School.

Garden Notes

By Walter W. Pitzonka, Jr.

I am sure that from time to time you have wondered why a certain type of a tree or plant is more expensive than other varieties at a nursery. For an example, let us consider the traditional Blue Spruce. Everyone knows that a Blue Spruce is bluish in color, but few know that there is the Colorado Blue Spruce and the Koster's Blue Spruce. The habits of growth of the two are similar, but the big difference is the intensity of blueness. Koster's Blue Spruce is a very decided blue texture while the Colorado Blue Spruce is blue but not so intense. The Koster variety is about twice as expensive as the other. The main reason for the price difference is that Koster's Blue comes only from grafting and not from seeds. These seeds may germinate to yield hundreds or perhaps thousands of plants.

Grafting however is a more skilled practice. In this procedure, a portion of a desirable plant is united onto a root stock of a close relative. This may consume practically four to ten times as much time to do as sowing the seed. Koster's Blue Spruce is a selected plant out of the original Colorado Blue Spruce group, which can be propagated by seed. Since the Koster was the only tree of its kind, it would not reproduce itself through seeds. The only means left was to use an asexual method of propagation such as cuttings, budding, grafting, layering and others. The entire spruce family is extremely difficult to root by cuttings and layering; consequently the only way to use budding or grafting. This process requires an expert on propagation. High wages are a necessity for fine skilled workmen. Besides this skilled handling, there is the thought that the mortality rate is rather high for the number of grafts handled. Let us say that 20 grafts are required to obtain eight or ten good plants, resulting again in added expense.

Grafted material, regardless whether it is Japanese red maple, named varieties of fruit or even pink dogwood, it is always necessary to consider them as tenderly hardy during the winter. Tenderly hardy means that the plant is hardy but might show die-back signs in the spring. Grafted stock needs good winter protection, such as proper fall fertilization, correct pruning and complete winter mulching. If mulching is needed, consult an expert before you apply it. A mulch in the hands of an amateur may do more harm than good.

In closing this topic on grafted stock, let me remind you that grafting requires great hand work and care. This is more expensive both for the producing nurseryman and the purchasing customer. The next time while visiting your nurseryman, observe the number of plants that he carries which are produced asexually. I am sure you'll be surprised.

If you are one of the many persons waiting for rain for your garden, I have great news. The extended weather forecast for this area says that the moisture is going to arrive soon to break this extended drought we've been having. This might be good official word that the drought is over, but I think the weather bureau forecast a cool damp early September and I guess you can remember those lovely "dry 100" days with those dry clear 80° nights. Let's all hope the rain will soon arrive to help everyone and everything.

Reminder of the week is to continue working on your lawn. Fall is the ideal time for lawn care. Until next Thursday, happy gardening!

9 Good Reasons for Voting Republican November 3rd

1954 will mark the beginning of a new era for historic Bucks County . . . it will be an era of vast opportunities . . . tremendous industrial expansion . . . and complex problems for the worker, the educator, the housewife and the businessman . . .

These problems will demand clear thinking and sound planning on the part of our county officials . . .

It is of the utmost importance, therefore, that the decision you make November 3rd be the wisest decision . . . and you could make no wiser choice than to vote for these men.

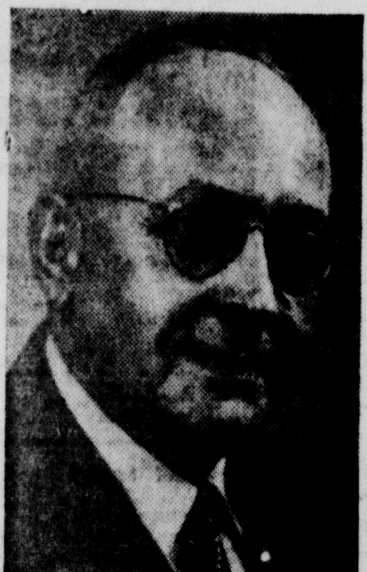

This is a political advertisement paid for by the Bucks County Republican Committee

Candidate for Superior Court of Pennsylvania, he was born in Catawissa, Columbia county, April 5, 1895. He was educated in Catawissa public and high schools, Temple University and University of Pennsylvania L. v. School. He is a veteran of World War I. Appointed Judge of the Court of Common Pleas of Delaware county in 1941, and inducted as president judge in January, 1948. In 1951 he was nominated by both parties and reelected without opposition to a second ten-year term.

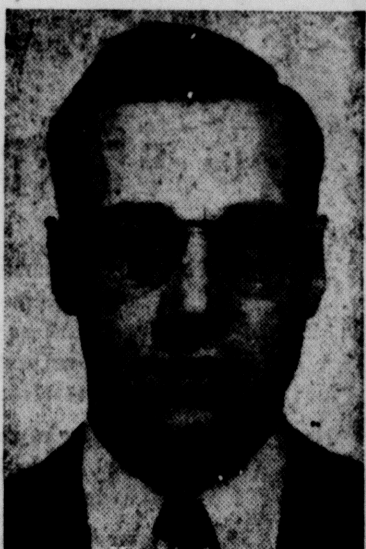

J. COLVIN WRIGHT
Candidate for a full term as Judge of the Superior Court of Pennsylvania, he was born in Bedford, Nov. 20, 1901. A graduate of Haverford College and the Law School of the University of Pennsylvania, he was elected and re-elected President Judge of the Court of Common Pleas of Bedford county on the Republican and Democratic tickets. He served as delegate to the Republican National Convention in 1952. He is a Rotarian, Mason, Elk, Odd Fellow and member of the Sons of the American Revolution.

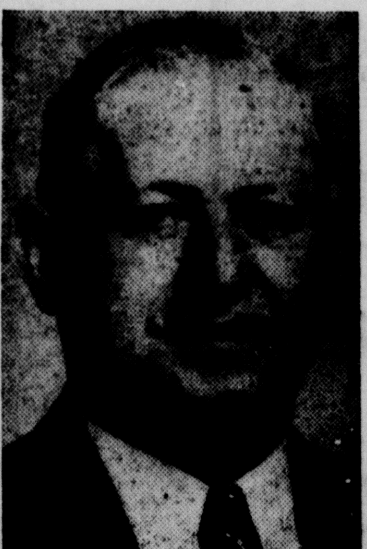

RAYMOND BLEISTEIN
This successful Durham Township businessman is the Republican candidate for a office of Prothonotary of Bucks county. An overseas veteran of World War I, Mr. Bleistein, has been engaged in the well-drilling business for 30 years in Bucks county. For 18 years he was Republican supervisor of Durham Township. He is an active member of the Veterans of Foreign Wars. His family includes his wife, Edna, and one daughter. The office has three deputies. Retiring Prothonotary is Joseph A. Keating.

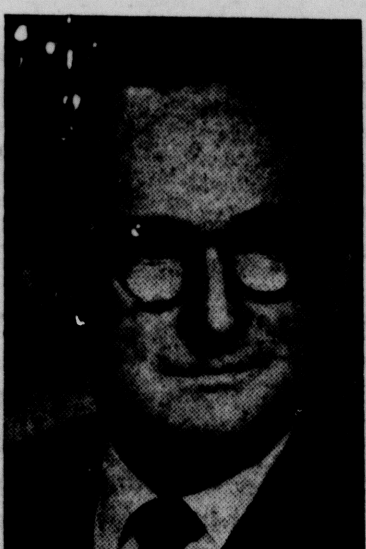

HOWARD G. KRUPP
County Controller Krupp, 32, a well-known resident of Chalfont, is seeking another four-year term to the office he has held since its creation in 1941 when he was appointed by former Governor James. He is a veteran of World War I, and for 28 years was employed by the Reading Railroad Company. A prominent Mason, past president of Chalfont Lions Club, and organizer of first Young Republican Club in Bucks county in 1933, he is past president of the Pennsylvania State Association of County Controllers.

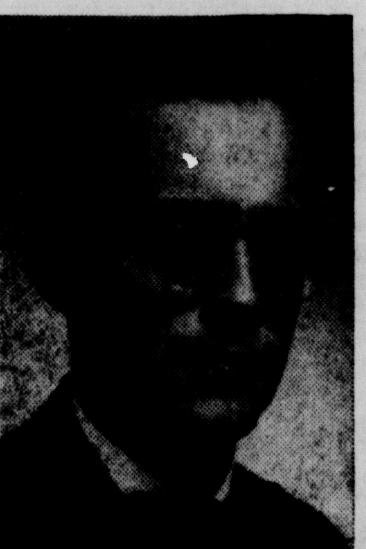

DONALD W. VANARTSDALEN
Popular Doylestown lawyer, serving as First Assistant District Attorney, he is the Republican candidate for District Attorney to succeed Willard S. Curtin, of Morrisville. At 34, he is one of the youngest prosecuting attorneys in the State. He is the son of a veteran member of the Bar, Isaac J. Vanartsdalen, of Doylestown. A veteran of World War II, Mr. Vanartsdalen is married and resides in Doylestown Township. He was appointed Assistant District Attorney on August 29, 1949.

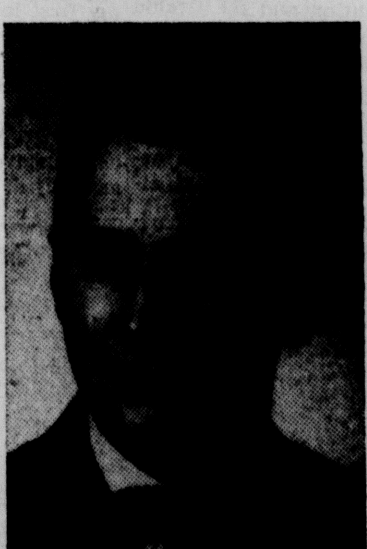

G. LEROY MURRAY
Republican candidate for the office of Sheriff, he recently completed his 29th year as Tax Collector of Warrington Township. For 24 years he was affiliated with the Gulf Refining Company. His wife, Anna M. is Republican committeewoman of Warrington Township. The retiring Sheriff this year is Harry Ross, of Churchville. His father, the late Charles Murray, a farmer, was supervisor of Warrington Township for a number of years. He is a graduate of Peirce Business College, Philadelphia.

JOHN A. COLLINS
Well-known Falls Township businessman, Mr. Collins is the Republican candidate for the office of Recorder of Deeds of Bucks county, to succeed Recorder I. Hart Jamison, Ivyland. An executive of the King Farms Company, he has been with that organization since 1929 as assistant secretary and assistant treasurer. Mr. Collins is married to Mary Durkin Collins, of Philadelphia. They have three children. Mr. Collins is president of the Falls Township Civic Association, and a captain in the 1952 Community Chest.

EDWIN H. SATTERTHWAITE
Judge Satterthwaite, Republican choice for Judge of the Court of Common Pleas of Bucks county, also is endorsed by the Democratic Party. At 38 Judge Satterthwaite was named third Judge of the Court of Common Pleas by Governor Fine, in 1951. A Doylestown resident, he has served with distinction since being sworn in in January, 1952. He is married to the former Irma C. Nachod, daughter of a Glenside attorney, and they have two children, Edwin M., and William R.

SANFORD F. CUNNINGHAM
Prominent 34-year-old Southampton businessman, he is the Republican candidate for Jury Commissioner. A native of Philadelphia, he moved to Bucks county with his parents when he was six years old and settled in Trevores before moving to Southampton in 1948. He is in the power equipment business and is president of the Southampton Republican Club and a director of the Bucks County Young Republicans. He is married and has two sons and one daughter. He is a veteran of World War II.

News of Schools

PENNSBURY SCHOOLS Elementary Division

"How may we serve our school and community?" is the theme of the year chosen by the Student Council of the Yardley Elementary Building of the Pennsbury Schools.

A first grade Council member, Robert Smith, contributed the idea of having the Student Council sponsor the Bucks County Community Chest drive among the students. One day last week the Council reported that every pupil had contributed to the drive. They presented $38 to Mrs. Mary Petrilla, who is the Pennsbury Schools chairman of collections for the Community Chest Drive.

The Yardley Building Student Council has been active for the past three years under the faculty leadership of Mrs. Grace McGarth, first grade teacher. The Council consists of one member from each home room.

Officers recently elected by the entire student body include: William Haulman, sixth grade, president; vice-president Cornelius Williams, sixth grade, and Carol Palmer, fifth grade, secretary. Other Council members are Jackie Coulton and Michael Murray, fourth grade, Paul Haldeman, third grade, Charles Carver and Sally Benkert, second grade, Robert Smith and Richard Seeley, first grade.

The Council is sponsoring a series of projects for this school year, a Halloween mask contest, an art show, a playground safety campaign and a hobby show.

PENNSBURY HIGH

Each year thousands of people are killed in automobile accidents. One of the chief contributing factors is the untrained drivers. To combat this, Pennsbury High School has started a driver training course. The purpose of the course is to equip drivers with information skills and attitudes toward sportsmanlike driving.

The course is divided into two parts, classroom and road instruction. The classroom instruction is required for all eleventh grade health classes, road instruction is optional.

Credit will be given for completed work.

Dual Control Cars
The following skills are taught: Steering, starting and stopping, gear shifting, turns, backing, turning around, parking, skill tests, traffic driving, miscellaneous skills such as skids and blow outs.

The students use two dual control cars loaned to the high school by Fallington Motors.

Eighty students are expected to receive their licenses this year. Miss Helen P. Duff, Pennsbury High nurse, announced that 665 students in the seventh ninth and eleventh grades have had hearing examinations.

New Teacher

Edgewood students in the seventh and ninth grades are in the progress of physical examinations.

The most common defects found in the examinations are poor posture and poor vision, but all these defects can be easily overcome by cooperation on part of students and parents.

Mrs. Robert McCaffrey is a new member of Pennsbury High's faculty. She teaches science to most of the ninth graders.

Mrs. McCaffrey came to Pennsbury from Berwick Junior High School, where she taught for four years. She is a graduate of Bloomsburg College, where she met and married her husband.

She lives at Yardley. She has two children, Paulette, five, and Rosanne, twenty months.

Juniors Elect

Junior class officers were elected last week. The class held a primary, then a final election. The officers are Paul Giordano, president; Margaret Stiel, vice-president; Lynn Carter, secretary, and Jim MacMillan, treasurer.

The Red Cross Club listened to speaker on the Community Chest Drive. Sheila Dotts, Tom Kafes, Elva O'Brien, Marlene Hyjurik gave interesting speeches on what the Red Feather does for the community. On Oct. 15 there was a campaign in the school to see which classes could get 100 per cent of its quota. The drive proved successful.

Attending the Pennsylvania State Student Council Convention in West View, Pa., were Charles Berger, president of the Student Council, Carol Chapla, Lowell Williams, and Marilyn Pisaurd. Williams served on the constitution committee.

Community Group Fixes Boundaries

Members of the newly formed Maple Shade-West Bristol Community Association set the physical boundaries of their organization at a meeting last night.

According to Mrs. John Benson, secretary, these boundaries were established: Route 13 to Neshaun Creek, Ford road east to Route 413, and Route 413 to Route 13.

Anyone living in the defined area is invited to attend the next meeting of the group at 8 p. m. Wednesday at 2132 Prospect avenue, Maple Shade. The group is planning a membership drive.

Will This Help?

DELHAAS HIGH SCHOOL students in senior sociology are preparing a radio script telling how the industrial boom has affected education, using their own school and other Bristol township schools as illustrations. Joan Anderson, 1111 Sycamore avenue, Croydon, left, and Rose Marie Coulter, 1118 Cedar avenue, Croydon, do final research on the project. The script, which was prepared under the direction of Miss Ivy Foley, head of the social studies department, will be tape-recorded for re-broadcast in November.

Yardley Youngsters To Hold Parade

A Halloween parade for Yardley youngsters will begin tomorrow night at 7. Sponsored by the Yardley Community Center, the parade will begin outside the Center and will be led by the local fire company.

According to Mrs. Conard Baldwin, chairman of the Center's activity group, the children will be given a party after the parade. Prizes will be awarded for costumes, and refreshments will be served.

At 2 p. m. Saturday, in the Center's Pine Room, adults will stage a Halloween celebration. Mrs. Ella Denahan will be chairman of the affair.

List $103,000 Gifts By Business Firms

A total of $103,841 in contributions from large firms in lower Bucks County was reported at a meeting of the large firms committee at a dinner meeting this week.

This is fifty per cent of industry's goal in that region of the county. The meeting, held at Flannery's restaurant, Pennel, was presided over by Clyde J. Waterman, chairman of the large firms committee. The dinner was a Dutch treat affair.

There will be another meeting of this group next Monday evening, Nov. 2, also at Flannery's.

PRE-INDUCTION 'EXAMS'
Local Board No. 35, Selective Service, announces that 25 men will be sent to Philadelphia, Nov. 2nd, for pre-induction examinations.

Bristol Woman Back From Trip

NEW YORK—Eva Wyatt, of 2324 Wilson avenue, Bristol, Pa., was among 2,004 passengers who arrived on board the Cunard White Star liner Queen Elizabeth. The ship docked at Pier 90 in the North River with a bent hull plate, after completing its voyage from Europe.

Commodore Harry Grattidge, master of the 3,673-ton liner, explained that the hull plate, 30 feet long and 20 feet high, was punched when the liner rammed the end of a Cherbourg pier. A strong current was blamed for the accident.

The plate, which is about 20 feet above the water line, will be repaired in mid-December when the liner is laid up for her annual overhaul.

Kready Outlines New Curriculum At PTA Meeting

More than 120 were present at the first fall meeting of Newtown Borough Elementary Parent-Teacher Association Monday evening in Council Rock High School Auditorium, Newtown. Mrs. Frank Skerdlant, president, asked for suggestions for the year's work.

Announcement was made of Council Rock Health Clinic November 2nd, at 8 p. m. in the faculty room.

Membership was listed at 190. The third grade received attendance award of $5 with a parent attendance of 80 per cent.

Mrs. Leonard Pfeiffer, of the welfare committee, Newtown Junior New Century Club, urged the group to vote "yes" on proposed Bucks County public health plan.

Mrs. Wayne Weland, chairman of ways and means committee, announced her committee will again publish a telephone directory, anticipating a profit of $500. Assisting in the work are Mrs. Claude White, Mrs. T. Calvin White, Mrs. William Doherty, and Mrs. Emery Christopher.

Members were invited to attend the Wednesday assembly programs from 9:10 to 10:15 a. m.; also a puppet show November 4, given by a dairy council.

John W. Kready, elementary supervisor, was introduced by Norman Kratz, supervising principal. Mr. Kready outlined the new curriculum, the new spelling, reading and writing system, and explained its use in regular and manuscript print; explained its use for reading groups, the spelling system, also the new arithmetic books. He placed particular emphasis on lower grade groups.

Visitation was held in order that the parents, teachers and children might understand each other better, and particular problems existing for some.

A joint meeting with Council Rock PTA will feature the meeting November 16, at which time John J. Mladjen, Langhorne, elementary principal of Forrest School, Philadelphia, will be the speaker.

Mrs. A. Mammel Is Named Canteen Head at Newtown

Mrs. Albert C. Mammel has been appointed chairman of canteen for Newtown district, Lower Bucks branch, American Red Cross, it was announced at the meeting of the board of directors held Monday in Neshaminy Valley Youth Center, Newtown.

Mrs. Garrett P. Goodnoe, chairman, presided.

Mrs. Alan Lukens is a new member of the canteen and she and other members will serve when the Bloodmobile visits at Neshaminy Valley Youth Center, Nov. 6th. One hundred and fifty donors are needed to make the quota of 100 or more pints.

The report of Mrs. Chester Ely, former chairman of canteen, was read, this presenting the work she and her members volunteered during the summer.

Mrs. Robert Kirkpatrick, chairman of motors corps, presented her report from January to October 24, 1953. Last Saturday 16 station wagons of Southeastern Pennsylvania Chapter transported veterans to football games.

Mrs. Harry Marshall, new Junior Red Cross chairman, reported supplies have been placed in various schools for the current drive. The next meeting will be December 25 at 2 p. m.

Dinner Pays Honor To TB Secretary

DOYLESTOWN, Oct. 29 — Mrs. Emma C. Stover, 304 East Court street, executive secretary of the Bucks County Tuberculosis and Health Society for the past 22 years, was honored at a dinner at Conti's Cross Keys Inn.

The dinner, given by officers and directors of the society, was presided over by Dr. A. J. Strathie, Newtown, and attended by numerous officers, directors and associates.

Mrs. Stover, employed by the society in 1931, was responsible for the building of the tuberculosis program in the Bucks County schools, and increasing community awareness of the work.

Informed Children Don't Start Fires, Kiwanians Learn

"Many fires that have been started by children could have been prevented if parents had only explained the danger of fire to them," Robert Graham, Bucks County fire marshal, told members of the Bucks County Kiwanis Club.

Graham stressed that if children are taught to respect fire and to understand the damage it can do, there will be fewer accidental fires. The fire chief, speaking on fire and arson, also said that children who are arsonists, in the majority of cases, come from broken or unhappy homes. They vent their frustrations, he said, by setting fires.

The marshal also explained to the group the financial structure of the majority of area fire companies. They are purely volunteer companies, he told them, that exist mainly on funds contributed by the various communities and on monies collected from bazaars, fairs and suppers. He added that some townships do contribute to the fund, but it is only a small measure of support.

After the talk, Paul Souerby was re-elected secretary. It was announced there will be an orchestra and dancing at the Nov. 3 Ladies Night. The new officers of the club were officially installed.

Parable of Sower Theme for WSCS

"A Sower Went Forth to Sow" was the basis for the study period last evening at the October meeting of Woman's Society of Christian Service, held in Neshamony Methodist Church, Hulmeville.

This was presented by Mrs. Merritt Godshalk, who discussed in this connection the rural church — the center of a community; the vital needs in various countries, such as food in India; more equitable distribution of land in the Philippine Islands; increased agricultural knowledge and improved poultry and stock in many countries. Application was made from this to the need for sowing of "seed" by Christians through spiritual help. "As the sower goes forth to sow, the important thing is that good seed be planted, and that it fall on good soil," she concluded.

Group songs were in keeping with the theme; as was the worship center featuring an autumn scene with miniature harvest field. Mrs. Harold Dasenberg served as pianist.

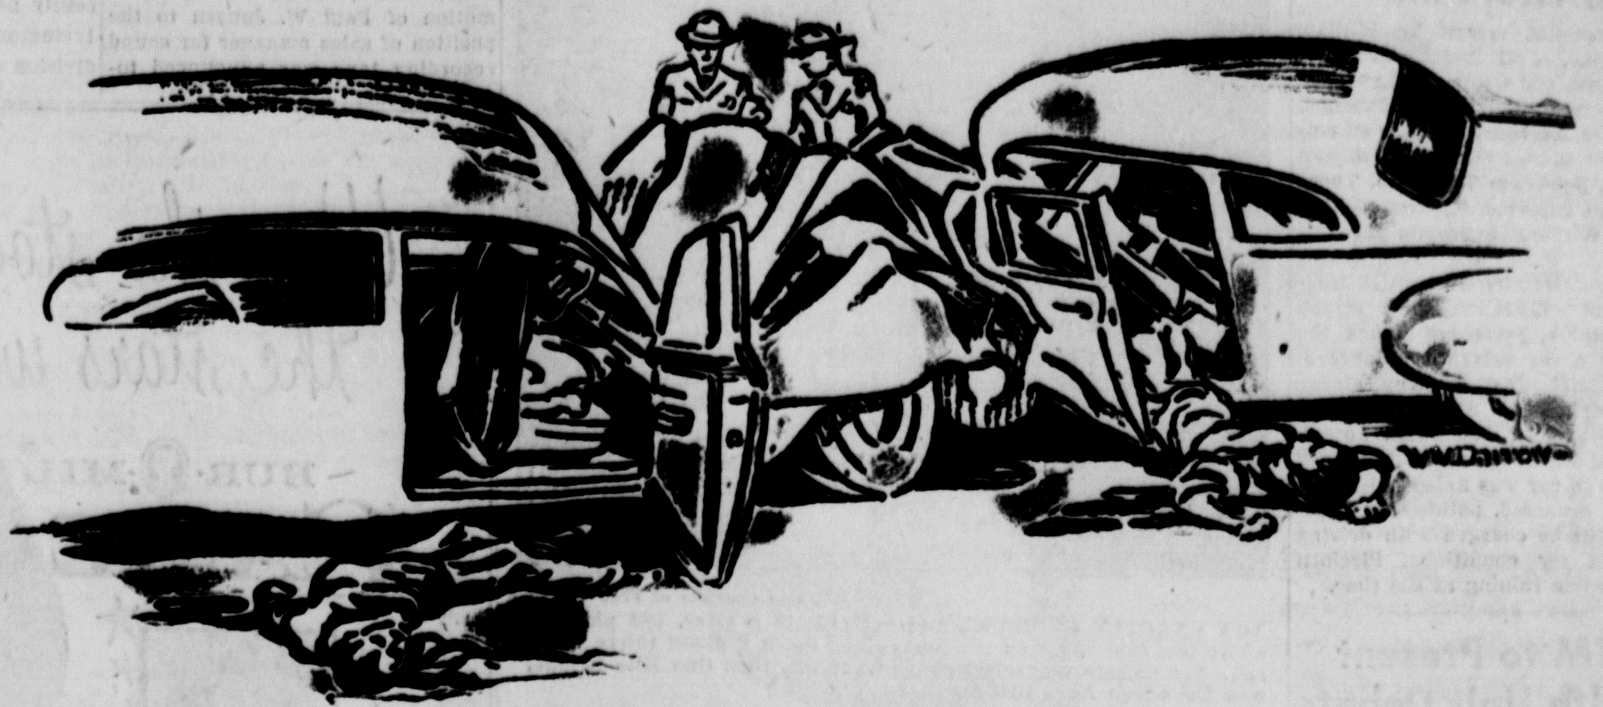

The presiding officer was Miss Adeline E. Reetz. Records were in charge of Mrs. Donald Haefner.

With well over $400 cleared on the recent supper, the society decided to pay $250, the balance due on the pledge to the building fund. Mrs. Vincent Latham presented the supper report.

For promotion secretary, Mrs. John Cerin, announcement was made by Mrs. Roger S. Burns of a conference W.S.C.S. meeting Nov. 4th at Bala-Cynwyd Church. Student secretary, Miss Nellie E. Main, Pennel, told of mailing of books, devotional booklets, cards, etc., to students and servicemen. Orders have been placed for shipping of Christmas gift boxes to servicemen, this being in charge of Mrs. Herbert Rongley. Mrs. George Fettes, Pennel, reported for the flower committee.

A quantity of clothing, originally collected for shipment overseas, is to be sent to a missionary in the Kentucky mountains, members decided. In lieu of a gift exchange among members at the Christmas party next month, each will provide a gift to be sent to the Kentucky mission field.

The unit will be responsible for refreshments at the Christmas tea at the church.

DEADLY WEEK-ENDS

Pleasure time is no time for accidents and sudden death, but unfortunately that is when the grim specter works overtime.

On the average week-end about 290 persons are killed and more than 13,600 injured. In a year's time, week-end and holiday casualties climb to the numbing total of 15,000 dead, 750,000 injured, or about 41 percent of all lives lost annually in traffic accidents.

With a week-end or holiday coming up, families and vacation parties swarm the roads to places of recreation, traffic is congested, driving strain increased—and then the fatal count begins.

Millions of good, bad and indifferent drivers speeding, cutting in, weaving, ignoring the rules of courtesy, challenging traffic controls, provide the lethal ingredients for crashing and killing. Add to this the potion of the drinking driver and the mixture is deadly.

When you plan week-end driving be doubly cautious. Try to avoid peak hours of travel and congested routes. Start early, return before or after the rush. Watch your driving, keep your temper, don't contest the right-of-way—and watch the other driver!

Slow down—take a little longer and bring your family home alive.

SLOW DOWN—LIVES ARE IN YOUR HANDS!

Two Cars Collide On Bristol Pike

Automobiles driven by William D. B. Joke, of 61 Red Cedar drive, Levittown, and George C. Lyons, of Cornwell Heights, were damaged at 7:10 a. m. today when they collided at Bristol pike and Wildman avenue, Bensalem Township. There were no reported injuries. Acting Chief William Schramm investigated.

A car driven by Herman P. Meadows, of 465 North Fifth street, Philadelphia, yesterday struck the rear of a car driven by Harry J. Eckert, 511 East Godfrey street, Philadelphia, at State road and Station avenue. Patrolman Joseph Picciotti reported.

Eckert's car was halted when the mishap occurred, police said. Meadows will be charged with driving too fast for conditions, Picciotti said. It was raining at the time.

WTTM to Present Health Unit Debate

Both sides of the proposed law which would give Bucks County a county health department, will be presented in a radio debate, aired over WTTM, Trenton, at 2:30 p. m. Saturday, it was announced by Fred L. Bernstein, general manager of WTTM.

The issue, which will be decided by a vote on Tuesday, has been opposed by the Pennsylvania Township Supervisors' Association, and as strongly supported by the Bucks County Medical Association and civic groups.

The pros for the Health Department will be presented by Dr. Richard I. Darnell, of New Hope. Speaking against the issue will be Harry A. Thomson, of Philadelphia, and Secretary of the supervisors association.

'News' Disguise Wins An Awards for Mrs. Lewis

The Dorcas Circle of Newportville Presbyterian Church enjoyed a Halloween party, Tuesday evening, at the home of Mrs. Arnold Marsh with 19 attending.

Mrs. William Lewis was awarded a gift for being the last one to be identified. Her disguise was as "The News."

Three other guests received gifts for originality, comic and clever ideas, these including Mrs. Raymond Berger, Mrs. James Grego and Mrs. Walter Bowker. Games participated in included "The Art Museum," "Pass the Lemon," "Blindfold Feeding," "Silver Spoon Fortune" and marshmallow and cookie eating contests.

Refreshments were served. The next meeting of the Circle will be Nov. 10 at the home of Mrs. Wilbur Blehl. Co-hostess will be Mrs. Stewart Skull.

KIDDIES' PARTY

Newport Fire Co., No. 1, Bensalem twp., will sponsor an annual children's Halloween party Oct. 30 in the fire station at eight p. m.

Al Kohli Releases Election Program

Disavowing any political affiliation Elbert "Al" Kohli of 74 Shepherd lane, Levittown, has come out with a "sticker" campaign as an independent candidate for Township Commissioner in the Sixth Ward of Bristol Township. This area encompasses practically all of Stonybrook, Farmbrook, Greenbrook, Dogwood, Oaktree, Crabtree and Magnolia Hill in the Levittown area.

His platform, one which is centered on the idea of "A Levittown for Levittown," includes the following he announced: A park commission, a township recreational program which includes a youth center and a street department. Kohli says he is concerned about the tax program, the street cleaning, the water and sewage authority, the police department and a health department.

WARMEST U. S. SPOT IN WINTER

Texas Steps Up to Boast (of course)
Of Magic Valley of Pleasant Breezes

WESLACO, Tex., (INS)—There's a "Magic Valley" in southwestern United States making its bid as a winter playground for the average-income American.

It claims the warmest sunshine, best hunting and fishing, longest gulf beaches and the easiest way of life this side of the Mexican border—all at moderate prices.

Located in what is known as the tip of Texas, this Magic Valley is a strip of some 60 miles long just north of the Rio Grande.

Highway 83, the main street of the valley, links its principal towns from Mission through Brownsville, and ends at the International Bridge across the river to Mexico.

It is the warmest winter spot in the United States, and very nearly the southernmost point, being just a few degrees north of some of the southern Florida islands.

The average winter temperature, based on the U.S. weather Bureau's 30-year findings, is 97.7, compared with Miami's 78.4, and Los Angeles' 66.5.

Mexico is at the valley's doorstep and American citizens are permitted to cross the Rio Grande to visit the Mexican border towns on their statement that they are U.S. citizens.

A place to "get away from it all" is Boca Chica beach, a three-mile strip of nothing but wind, water, sand and contentment.

Located just 22 miles from the city of Brownsville, the beach on the Gulf of Mexico at the mouth of the Rio Grande offers excellent year-around swimming.

The Magic Valley is easily accessible by highway, rail and air. U. S. Highways 77, 83 and 281 serve the area from the north. Three bus lines and two railroads lead into the valley, and numerous commercial airlines stop at Brownsville International Airport. Fourteen airfields are strategically located throughout the valley.

Clergymen Plan
Meeting Nov. 17-19

HARRISBURG, (INS)—The Pennsylvania Council of Churches announced the second annual Pastors' Conference will be held at Harrisburg, Nov. 17-19.

Rev. Jule Ayers, of Wilkes-Barre, conference chairman, said more than 500 clergymen of Christian communions in Pennsylvania are expected to attend the three-day session.

Included on the list of 11 prominent church leaders to participate in the conference is Methodist Bishop G. Bromley Oxnam, of Washington, D. C.

Moderate Winter
Invites Tourists To
'Frisco Bay Area

SAN FRANCISCO, (INS)—If you like your winter moisture in the form of fog or rain instead of snow, San Francisco is the spot for your vacation.

The city, a popular vacation mecca in the summer because of its mild temperatures, is favored in the winter for the same reason. San Francisco's flowers bloom all winter long and frost is so rare as to make newspaper headlines.

All the city's famed tourist attractions are present—the cable cars, the beautiful Golden Gate and San Francisco Bay bridges, the ocean, Seal Rocks, Fishermen's Wharf, Nob, Russian and Telegraph hills, Twin Peak, Chinatown, the sidewalk flower stands, North Beach with its famed restaurants, Golden Gate Park and its museum.

You may see them a little damp—the city's rainy season starts about November 1 and lasts until March or April—but the rain does not seem to present much of a problem either to the city's residents or the tourists.

And to counteract this, the city has more than its share of balmy days in the winter months. Swimming at the beach on Christmas Day is not uncommon.

Fog is also less prevalent in the winter. The fog which is thick all summer, disappears almost completely in September and October—the city's summer—and appears only occasionally during the winter months.

CHANCE TO WIN—AND LOSE—MONEY

Monte Carlo Gets Famous Face Lifted; Woos Tourists To Enjoy Its Luxuries

MONTE CARLO, (INS) — A long of money in the famous Monte Carlo Casino.

Cities Melt Together
Monaco's three cities, which melt into one, each have a different character and attractions.

Monte Carlo, well known to international fashionables and gamblers, has a new ambition: to become the most luxurious, brilliant, elegant and chic meeting place in Europe.

Since the wealthy Greek-born, Argentine ship owner Aristote Onassis, obtained control of the famed Monte Carlo Casino a few months ago, the principality of Monaco has known an active period of preparations to modernize and rejuvenate its tourist attractions.

In this miniature principality, the smallest in Europe, you can live in a luxury hotel or rent a little bungalow. You can swim, stroll under palm trees and blooming laurel bushes or go to the theatre or ballet. And last but not least, you can quickly win — or lose — a lot

You can watch the guards change in their picturesque uniforms in front of the palace, or the colorfully dressed Monaco police force about one hundred in number, with white gloves, cap and hand-some black moustaches direct traffic.

Luxury Yachts There

The second part of the principality is the port and its old buildings called "La Condamine." In the port, used 2,000 years ago by Phoenician ships, today are luxury yachts including that of the Duke of Windsor.

The third, largest and best known part of the principality is Monte Carlo with its luxury hotels, beaches, sporting grounds and famous casino.

In winter, Monaco — like the rest of the Riviera — offers a warm climate. And while in winter one can see the snow-caps on the nearby Alps, the temperature on the Mediterranean shores is mild.

The new plans to attract tourists include a glass-walled heated swimming pool on the edge of the sea to make swimming an all-year-round pleasure.

TOASTED EGG FLUFF

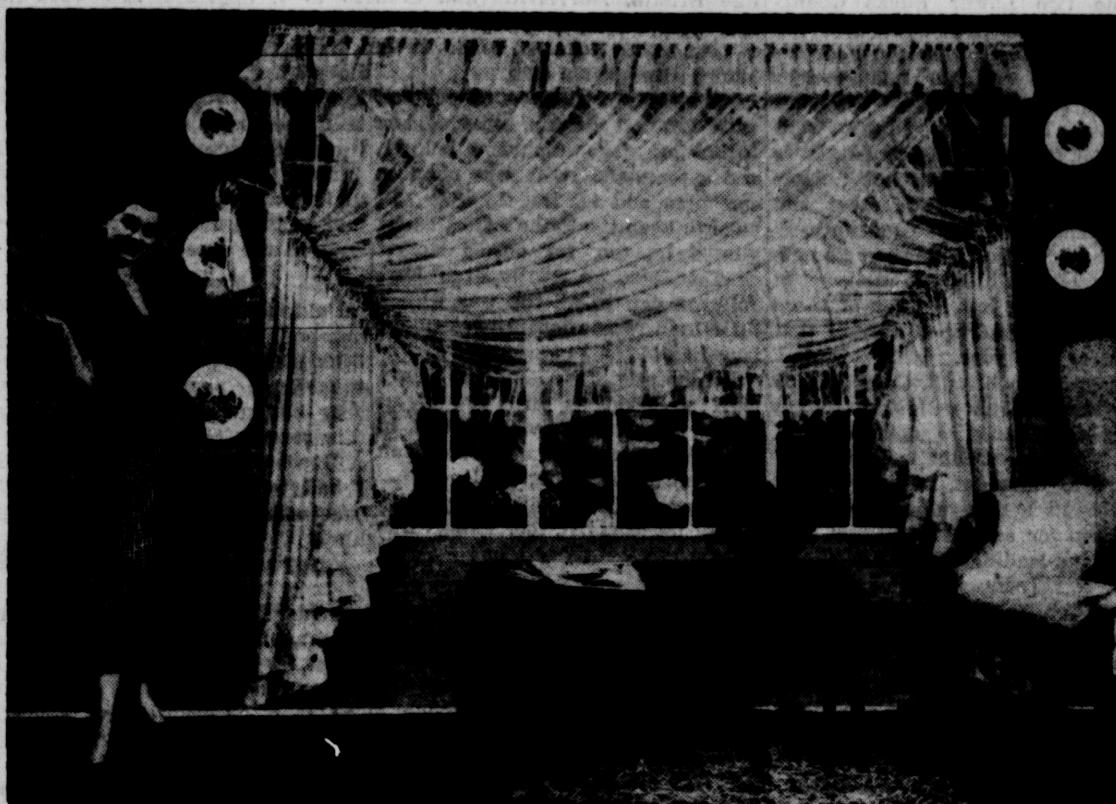

4 eggs, separated
1/2 teaspoon salt
4 toast rounds or ryaks
Whip the egg whites and salt until stiff enough to hold a peak. Pile the beaten egg white on each toast round, making a depression in the center of each. Place egg yolk in each depression. Bake in a shallow pan in a moderate oven (350° F.) twenty minutes.
Yield: 4 toasted egg fluffs.

Warriors Report in Trim, Ready for Traditional Foe

It was a pleasant surprise for Coach Chic D'Angelo when he counted noses among his Bristol High School Warriors early this week and found a full battalion of hale and hearty young men behind them.

The Warriors got through last Friday night's scuffle with Neshaminy without a single crippling injury. It rates as a new record for durability for the Tribe, especially since even the brittle half-back, Larry Cohen, came away sound.

He will need every able-bodied operative he can find tomorrow night, D'Angelo knows, when his club moves against Burlington, N. J., in a home game under the lights. The Burs, as usual, are coming to town with a solidly good football team and will be substantially favored to trim the Pennsylvanians.

Of course, pre-game odds seldom carry much weight in this traditional cross-river scrap. For the past several seasons, Burlington has been the heavy favorite, but never has run off and hid with the verdict. Last year, for example, it took a penalty down to Bristol's doorstep to get the Burs across to a 6-0 victory. Bristol lost a possible tie tally in that game on a fumble at the Jerseyites' three-yard line.

Another Big Game
There is some question among Warrior followers whether D'Angelo will be able to coax another all-out effort out of his charges. The Bristol outdid themselves in holding Neshaminy to a 14-12 victory last week and the conception is that a team seldom gets "up" two weeks running.

It is consummately apropos that the Warriors have been spending considerable time at the art of converting points after touchdowns. Wayne Bloodgood, team captain and end, made his first placement efforts of the year in the Neshaminy game and missed two of three. The one he made, after the second rally, was nullified when his team was offside. On the first try, his hold-er had trouble finding the handle and on the third Bloodgood was slow getting the kick away.

D'Angelo is planning no wholesale changes in the lineup that he faced Neshaminy. He was particularly impressed by the running of sub halfback Al Caucci, who was understudying fragile Dom Sottile.

Near — TD's
On one of two occasions, Caucci pointed out, Caucci might have gone all the way with one good downfield block. He explained that on the off-tackle play used to such good advantage by the left half, it was difficult to free linemen for downfield cut-away work. Those available just couldn't get there ahead of the runner.

Sub end Bob DiLisio also caught his coach's eye with good defensive play that set up his own last-second touchdown. Young Bob, however, is not figured for much two-way work until his pass catching improves.

Tom Drescia's return and yeoman work at tackle was heartening to the Warrior line generally. The 200-pounder had missed several games and his absence had been felt particularly on defense. With Bob Rago and Mike Franceschini, Drescia sparked the Warriors to their best defensive effort of the season.

Heavy Foe
After watching the Burs in their 20-0 loss to unbeaten Palmyra last week, D'Angelo pronounced the enemy "heavier, but perhaps slower than us." He said the New Jersey team has a fine defense and a good ground attack that was hampered by eight fumbles against Palmyra.

That was the second loss for Burlington against two wins. Curiously, the Burs have scored two shutouts and been blanked twice. They joined Mt. Holly, 19-0, and put it on Moorestown, 34-0. Their other loss was a 25-0 setback at the hands of unbeaten Millville.

FOOTBALL FORECAST

Last week's upset and near-upsets were enough to give any forecaster the shudders, but somehow we eased through with a three and one record for four scholastic games.

Even that took some edge off a season's mark that now reads 15 right, three wrong for an .833 percentage.

Danger lurks in at least two of this week's games that will require a flip of the coin for selection. It came out like this:

BURLINGTON over Bristol: The LBCL just can't match Jersey Group Two football yet and Bristol is hardly the best of the league lot. Make it a 19-7 decision.

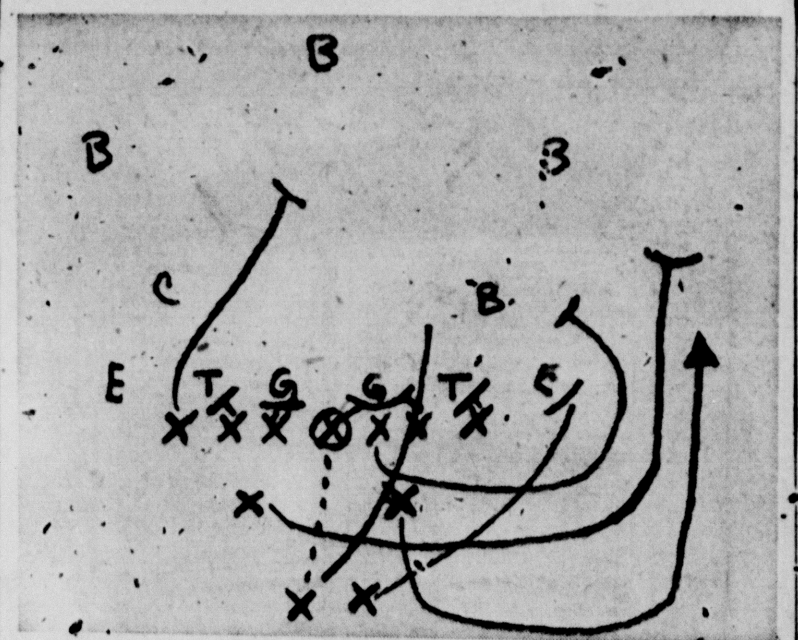

MORRISVILLE over Delhaas: Week's spotlight game when Delhaas mighty defenders lock horns with Morrisville's energetic backs. Go with the demonstrated scoring punch. 13-6.

NESHAMINY over Southampton: Now for the easier stuff. Top Redskin will rest, but it should still go to about 33-6.

BENSALEM over Lower Moreland: A tough inter-league test for the Owls, who are getting better by the week. They'll get by in a scoring duel. 34-19.

PENNSBURG over Council Rock: The Indians' grim determination will be insufficient against vastly superior manpower in a 25-0 rout. J. M.

CR Payoff Play

A series of straight power plays from Coach Dom Sagolla's box formation at Council Rock High are designed to set up this payoff play. The diagrammed maneuver can be aimed either to the left or the right and has been used to good advantage this year with Indian halfbacks Cecil Morris and Bob Teschner carrying.

The ball is snapped directly to the fullback (dotted line), who drives toward the right side and hands off to the right halfback. Then the fullback continues his fake line buck between the enemy left guard and tackle and moves downfield to block.

The halfback, bending low to insure deception, pivots and swings wide to the right (arrow) and heads downfield in a hurry. Blocking is set up to give the ball carrier maximum protection while not revealing the nature of the play until it is well underway.

The second deep back moves quickly to the outside to apply a key block on the end, while the left halfback runs laterally behind the scrimmage line and heads downfield ahead of the runner.

Along the line, the Council Rock right end has the big job of eliminating the opposition's left tackle. The offensive right tackle and the center double-team the rival guard, permitting CR's right guard to pull out and move with the runner.

Head-on blocking by the CR left guard and tackle erase other possible tacklers, while the left end goes immediately into the enemy secondary to pick up the safety man.

When all blocks are applied with perfect timing and force, the play is virtually unstoppable. It has both deception and power.

(Look for another diagram in next Tuesday's COURIER.)

TEMPLE STRESSES AERIAL DEFENSES

PHILADELPHIA — INS — Temple University gridders concentrated on aerial defense today in preparation for Saturday's engagement with Bainbridge Naval Training Center which features three ace fliers.

ROSES AHEAD? . . . By Alan Mavor

CR "Up" for Tilt With Pennsbury

Council Rock High's shorthanded Indians, who haven't yet found anyone they can lick after mid-day, will try to catch Pennsbury High's hefties napping Saturday morning.

The two Lower Bucks County League rivals are scheduled for a combat at 10 because of the dearth of suitable playgrounds among league schools. Pennsbury borrows Morrisville High's well-kept lot for its games, and because the MHS team has a home game Saturday night, this contest had to be scheduled in the morning.

After-breakfast games customarily are scheduled exclusively at Thanksgiving, but neither of these teams are mixed up in any of that business this year.

Around the circuit the belief is that the Indians will have to get up mighty early to get ahead of the Falcons. Council Rock has lost five straight, while Pennsbury owns a five-game win streak as salve for an opening night loss to league-leading Neshaminy.

Indians "Up"
Yet, Coach Dom Sagolla and his underdogs are at a high pitch for this scrap. They figure they did a pretty fair job in holding Neshaminy to a 32-6 victory, especially since no fewer than five regulars were out of it. With all hands in business, Sagolla has hopes of making something even better of this morning's scuffle.

Back in the fold are Bob Teschner, Cecil Morris, John Aldrich, Bob Traub and Norman Titus. The former two rate as Council Rock's most formidable offensive threats, but neither has been up to par physically of late. Teschner missed the Neshaminy tilt altogether.

Aldrich is a welcome returnee since he rates as the team's only full-blown center. Sagolla has had to make do with converts since Aldrich damaged a finger early in the year.

Traub at guard and Titus at tackle figure to strengthen a line too shallow in reserves.

Having everybody healthy will be a novelty for Sagolla, whose team at best is a 20-man or so ensemble. Even at that rate, the Indians will go to battle with a squad just over half as big as the Pennsbury horde.

Deception and Speed
The Indians hope to offset the manpower disadvantage with deception and speed.

WOMEN COP HONORS IN PA. HORSE SHOW
HARRISBURG, Pa. — INS — The ladies copied top honors in the International individual competition at the Pennsylvania national horse show Wednesday night.

Mrs. Patricia Smythe of the British team captured first place with her brilliant handling of Prince Hal, while 18-year-old Shirley Thomas took second place on White Sable. The win as Miss Smythe's third in the show.

BOOSTER CAMPAIGN FOR CLUBHOUSE IN CROYDON TO OPEN
A number of men and women will be ringing doorbells in Croydon and Croydon Manor Nov. 1 to solicit funds for a clubhouse building for Croydon Comets Boys' Club.

The club, organized three years ago, has approximately 100 members.

The Croydon Comets Boosters, with approximately 30 members, are sponsoring the campaign. Officers and executive committee of the Booster group are: Lawrence Quigley, president; Anthony R. Rudy, vice-president; Mrs. Anthony Rudy, secretary; Mrs. William Makris, treasurer; Charles Walker, Jr., Harry Killian, Arthur Taylor, Herman Garlinger, Hans Scheich, William Makris, executive committee.

An agreement of sale was signed last week by the officers of the Boosters for a tract of eight lots on Magnolia avenue, where they hope to erect a one-story cinder block building 75x100 feet when funds are available.

The building would be a place for boys of the area to spend spare time under voluntary supervision.

Any person interested in aiding with the solicitation Sunday are asked to meet at State road and Neshaminy Bridge, Croydon, at 1 p. m. Business firms and builders are asked to donate materials to be used in the construction.

LBCAC To Get Charter
The Lower Bucks County Athletic Conference is expected to get a charter tonight, and perhaps a ninth team for its 1953-54 basketball league.

A committee, headed by Bristol-Lower Bucks' Chamber of Commerce Secretary John Franks and appointed three weeks ago, is expected to make charter recommendations at a meeting in the Rohm and Haas clubhouse at 7:30. At the same time, a bid from a Morrisville club for entry into the league will be considered.

The LBCAC is less than a month old, having grown out of a meeting called by J. J. Gouza and David Landreth, co-chairmen of the organization. It has taken as its first project the formation and conducting of a basketball loop for industries, communities and organizations in Lower Bucks County. Long range plans call for the incorporation of all competitive sports and recreational programs.

Morrisville Bid
A week ago the court league apparently was set with eight teams scheduled for 63 games on Thursday nights and Sunday afternoons from Nov. 29 through the middle of March. However, the belated Morrisville request was directed to Gouza early this week.

"We would like to accommodate the ninth team," he said, "since it would give us good representation in every corner of our area."

Already signed are Levittown, Pennell's Aces, Bensalem Alumni Association, Lower Bucks CIO and four teams from Bristol, Rohm and Haas, Kaiser Metal Products, Franklin A. C. and the Celtics.

Gouza has made tentative arrangements for conference use of the clubhouse on Monday nights as well as Thursdays and Sundays if league decides to admit Morrisville. A 76-game schedule would be worked out with nine teams, he said, and would end early in March. Each team would be assured 16 games, exclusive of the playoffs. Six teams would participate in the post-season championship series.

Caldwell, Munn Lead Attack On Anti-Platooning

No Middle Ground In Survey of New Substitution Rule

(After half a season's experimentation, college football's biggest controversy over the limited substitution rule still rages as hotly as ever. Following is the first of three articles in which International News Service surveys the arguments for and against the rule, and its effects on the game. In today's article, critics of the "one platoon" system speak their piece.)

NEW YORK—INS—Two-platoon college football may be dead, but they forgot to bury it and the mourners still are queuing up from Princeton to Pasadena.

With the season at the mid-way stage, the limited substitution rule inspires either staunch support or fierce opposition. There seemingly is no middle ground.

On the "con" side, many disenchanted coaches, players and fans are crying "foul" over a revised game they say is for the "privileged few," has caused the brand of play to deteriorate and has increased the number of injuries.

Hero Worship
Other evils claimed by the critics include the elimination of specialists, encouragement of hero worship, the need for more practice time to learn both offensive and defensive assignments, with correspondingly less time for studies and more coaching headaches.

In possibly the most outspoken attack by a college coach, Princeton's Charley Caldwell called the new rule "a travesty on the game." The coach whose Tiger eleven was blasted from the unbeaten ranks, 65 to 7, by Navy two week-ends ago, charged specifically:

"The game now is for the privileged few, perhaps 25 players at the most. We believe varsity football is of benefit to a boy's educational development and that the game's values extend far beyond undergraduate days. Under unlimited substitution, 40 or more boys enjoyed the experience."

Smaller Squads
Caldwell cited the case of his number three wingback of 1952, Dick Hinat, who ran 60 yards for a touchdown against Rutgers last year but couldn't make the squad this season. He said:

"It was a tough thing to do. Still I had to tell him that under the present rule, we just couldn't use him."

Army's Earl Blaik says the one-platoon system goes against the concepts of education. "The boys are too tired to study on Sunday when they should be studying," he said. "Our kids were so knocked out that we had to cut some of their uniforms off after our Duke game."

Caldwell, Lou Little of Columbia and Ed Danowski of Fordham complain that coaches can't get messages into the game to adjust their team's strategy.

Players Dislike It
Georgia Tech's Bobby Dodd, who guided his team through a 51-game defeatless stretch, before losing to Notre Dame last weekend, says both he and his players dislike the new rule. He maintains that the present game is "far inferior."

Dodd added:

"The game today is characterized by misplays which definitely lead to upsets. A good team will lose a game because of one serious misplay. No team likes to be beaten unless it is playing a superior team. With misplays counting as heavily as they do, a good team can be defeated by an inferior one."

Biggie Munn, even before last Saturday's upset of his Michigan State team by Purdue, said:

"I've been against the change from the start, and I still say it sets football back 20 years."

The Spartans' leading scorer and ground-gainer, LeRoy Bolden, claims two-platoon football was "more interesting."

Key Men Hurt
Ohio State's star quarterback, John Borton, was injured playing defense against Illinois and Coach Woody Hayes called him "a victim of the anti-platoon system." He added that Borton, who sat out the following week's game with Pennsylvania, might have been able to play a limited amount if, under the old rule, he could have been used on offense only.

Castellani Trims Laurent Handily

CLEVELAND—INS—Rocky Castellani, third-ranking middleweight boxing contender, today set his sights on a title bout after winning a unanimous 10-round decision over Mickey Laurent in Cleveland.

Castellani, weighing 155 pounds, belted the Frenchman with virtually everything but the ring post Wednesday night and couldn't put his rugged opponent on the canvas. Laurent weighed in at 158½ for the nationally televised bout.

Unbeaten 'Hounds' Win X-Country Run

Unbeaten Southampton defeated George School's cross-country team this week, 18-38, at Newtown. It was the fifth straight loss for the Georgians.

Southampton's Joe Stefanowicz covered the two and one-tenth mile course in 11 minutes, 35 seconds to capture the event. He was pushed by George School's Dick Walsh, but from third place to sixth, Southampton runners piled up the victory. Ken Montgomery, Bill Plumb, Zarko Markovich, and Pete Fitzpatrick finished in that order for the winners.

Seventh place went to Don Wilder of George School and eighth to teammate Pete Schriber. Jack Wiley, Southampton, was ninth and Frank Morris, GS, tenth.

Expert On Allergy Points To Dangers In Wonder Drugs

WASHINGTON, (INS)—A leading medical spokesman said today there are indications that two antibiotic "wonder drugs," aureomycin and terramycin, are responsible for "super-infections" and fatal allergies.

The warning was issued by Dr. Ethan Allen Brown of Boston, editor of the Annals of Allergy, official publication of the American College of Allergy, at a meeting of 700 physicians.

The conference was arranged by the Food and Drug Administration to "orient the scientific worker on the present status of antibiotic therapy and development." Antibiotics are drugs derived from molds. They are widely used for the treatment of infections.

In some cases, Brown said, Diseases once cured by the antibiotics have led to strains which are no longer counteracted by "wonder drugs."

However, he declared any "scare" publicity which would cause patients to shy away from the use of life-saving antibiotics.

Asks Improved System
Brown urged his colleagues to set up an improved reporting system so that the effects of "wonder drugs" could be better evaluated and their dangers charted.

He said that some patients have developed fatal shock after receiving aureomycin and terramycin. In other cases, he said, these drugs have killed viruses causing the original disease and have left far more dangerous viruses in the system.

Brown called the latter "super-infections" and pointed out that they are not affected by any known drugs.

Refreshments will be served. Prizes will be awarded winners of games after the grand march.

Children Receive Security Benefits

TRENTON, N. J.—More than one million children are now getting social children are now getting social security benefits, according to Ruben R. Blane, manager of the Trenton social security office announced.

The million mark for child beneficiaries in the Nation was passed in July, he says. In the area served by the Trenton office, over 3,000 children are now on the insurance benefit rolls.

Approximately 918,000 of these children are getting monthly survivors insurance payments because of the untimely death of the family breadwinner. Most of the children who are receiving these benefit payments are from families in which the father has died. Some, however, have been dependent on insured working mothers. About 85,000 of these children—less than one-tenth of the total—are dependents of men or women who are receiving old-age insurance payments.

Look Well At Fabric When Purchasing A Man's Suit

By Frances Vannoy,
(Home Economics Extension Representative)

Type of suiting is one thing to consider when buying a man's suit. Wool suits must carry a label, according to a Federal law, stating the fiber content of the fabric, giving in percentages the amount of virgin or pure wool, reprocessed, or reused wool. The label is also required to state the name of code number of the manufacturer or the retailer.

Pure or virgin wool is wool that has been made into fabric for the first time. It can be high or low grade or somewhere in between. Re-processed wool means the fabric has previously been made into a fabric. A good quality reprocessed wool can be better than a poor quality pure wool. Reused wool is lowest quality and means it has been used previously for fabric in a garment.

The longer, finer, better quality wools are made into worsteds, usually closely woven and hard finished fabrics. Worsteds feel smooth and alive or springy when crumpled in your hand and do not hold wrinkles. Serge, gabardine, and sharkskin are examples of worsteds. They wear exceedingly well but may become shiny. The trend now is toward "unfinished or semi-finished" worsteds that are slightly napped so that they will not become shiny.

Woolens are softer, usually napped, and may hold wrinkles when crumpled in your hand. Made of good quality but shorter, coarser wool, they are less firmly woven so may not keep their shape or hold a press so well as worsteds. Woolen include tweeds, homespun and twills. Woolens do not wrinkle easily, but they can be cheapened easily by the use of harsh, inferior fibers.

The cost of operating the Commonwealth's 55 welfare and other institutions has risen sharply due to inflation. The appropriations for institutions totalled $68,000,000 in 1945 compared with $180,000,000 in the present budget period.

Wintertime is Best Period of Year To Visit Washington

WASHINGTON, (INS)—A wintertime visit to the nation's capital can be a thrilling—and comfortable—experience for the tourist planning a vacation during the cold weather months.

For the winter is the only time of the year that the capital is not over-crowded. Yet, some of the great events of history are recorded during December, January and February.

Among these are the annual opening of Congress during the first week of the new year and the quadrennial inauguration of a President of the United States on Jan. 20.

Then too, all branches of the government are running full tilt. The Supreme Court, installed in its impressive white marble building in Capitol Plaza, is in the midst of a new term. And the various federal departments and agencies are operating in high gear to help Congress in its monumental legislative tasks.

Problems In Spring

Spring is always an attractive time to visit Washington but there are housing shortages and problems in getting to see places and do things.

Not so in winter.

Since Washington is basically a metropolitan area, prices for hotel rooms usually remain constant. But with less visitors in the winter, the tourist has a much better choice of hotels. A room in the heart of the city can be had with little or no trouble, and often without reservations.

Guides Are Eager

Moreover, the city's tourist guides are more than happy to show the visitor around without the rush and excitement which is characteristic of spring.

Christmas is an important event in the capital. On Dec. 24, President Eisenhower, following tradition, is expected to light the National Community Christmas Tree on the White House lawn.

If Mr. Eisenhower is away from the city, he will be able to perform the tree-lighting ceremony by pushing a button provided by the communications industry especially for the event. Afterwards, the President usually gives his Christmas message to the nation.

Ike Before Congress

This event usually attracts thousands on the White House lawn where a military band joins with city and government officials for an appropriate opening for the Holiday Season.

Although there will be no inauguration this winter, the President still is expected to make a public appearance on Capitol Hill. Early in January, Mr. Eisenhower, again following tradition, is expected to deliver personally his State of the Union Message to a joint session of Congress in the House chamber.

Trip to Mt. Vernon

Another event of note is the annual pilgrimage to Mt. Vernon where high government officials will assemble on Feb. 22 to lay a wreath on the tomb of President George Washington.

And Washington's Birthday is always signalized in the capital by the crazy sales campaign promoted by local merchants. For this one day out of the year, automobiles, fur coats, typewriters, and other expensive types of merchandise are practically given away to lucky customers.

Washline Grouping Saves Time, Work

RALEIGH, N. C.—(INS)—The grouping of clothes and flat work on your wash line can save time and energy.

Ruth Current, North Carolina State home agent, suggests that housewives hang their laundry pieces in groups, and remove them from the line in the same manner. Her plan calls for the following groupings:

All starched clothing together; all articles that require little or no ironing together; all flat pieces that are folded as they are taken from the line, such as towels and sheets, in another group; and articles that are to be removed for ironing while damp in a fourth group.

Such a system, says Miss Current, saves time as well as energy.

RECIPES

Tuna-Mushroom Tidbits

(Makes 4 servings)

1 6½-ounce can chunk-style tuna, drained
¼ cup light cream
½ teaspoon salt
Dash cayenne
Dash Tabasco
16 large mushrooms
Bread crumbs
Grated processed American cheese

Combine tuna, cream, salt, cayenne and Tabasco; mix well. Remove stems from mushrooms. Wash mushroom caps. Broil mushrooms rounded-side up 3-4 inches from source of heat for 5 minutes. Remove from broiler rack, turn and fill each cap with tuna mixture. Sprinkle with bread crumbs and grated cheese. Return to broiler rack and broil 3-4 inches from source of heat about 5 minutes more, or until cheese is melted and lightly browned.

Pennsylvania is contributing three and a half times as much to the cost of operating colleges and universities now as it did at the end of World War II. In 1945, such appropriations totalled $12,100,000 and the total this year was approximately $40,600,000.

A Scalp That Is Healthy Comes Before Shining Locks

YOU CAN'T BRUSH hair too often. Make fifty strokes a night your rule. While you're at it, take time to massage your scalp.

By HELEN FOLLETT

If the scalp is in an unhealthy condition, you cannot expect your hair to be lustrous and attractively vibrant. The scalp is subject to various ills. The best way to prevent them is found in fastidious cleanliness. Shampoo hair often. Keep combs and brushes spotless. Give locks at least fifty strokes of the brush every night. Don't forget to massage the scalp.

Plenty of attention is given to pin-curling and hair arrangement, but they're not the whole story. The beauty of the hair is dependent to a certain extent upon your health.

Massage the Scalp
When giving yourself a shampoo, massage the scalp into your scalp. The more friction, the speedier will be the circulation. The scalp needs exercise.

Shaping the Child's Attitude Toward His Teacher at School

By GARRY CLEVELAND MYERS, Ph.D.

WHETHER parents know it or not, they are largely responsible for molding the child's attitude toward his teacher, by what they say about her in his presence and in the presence of his playmates and their parents.

We should try to build up this teacher in his mind and heart by emphasizing her strong points. But suppose parents feel sure a certain teacher lacks many good traits and desirable ways of treating children?

Emphasize Positive
Even so, we should play up her good ways, and we would find more of them to applaud if we knew her better. If we more often visited in her classroom when everything was going well with our child. At least, we can keep from emphasizing her weaknesses and from criticizing her before other persons. We can even divert conversation at our club or party from so gossipy a subject.

If a child thinks his teacher doesn't like him or understand him, or he complains about the way she treats him and insists she picks on him, I think we should listen calmly and let him have his say so long as he is not abusive. We shouldn't pass judgment then and there, and criticize her on the basis of what the child has said or what we have heard from others. If we do, he might pity himself, and his imagination could help him to find more faults in her and to suppose himself a martyr. In case he does so, we can be sure he will dislike her still more and learn less from her thereafter.

Is Teacher Infallible?
"Are we going to assume the teacher is always right?" the parent may ask.

I think we should assume she is right most of the time. If, however, we feel sure she was not right in a certain instance, a calm, quiet talk with her might clear things up. Indeed, this talk might enable us to help our child understand his teacher better. Then, without criticizing her, we might wisely say to the child that he had better find out what the teacher expects of him and try to measure up to her expectations more fully.

While we shall hope that the school will go on trying to suit the learning program to the child's ability to learn, if we are wise, we won't expect the teacher and school to do all the adjusting. The child will also need to make reasonable adaptations to the school. Perhaps some of our education experts have caused many parents to expect unreasonable adjustments to the child's wishes and behavior.

Visiting the Teacher
When you do go to see that teacher concerning something which your child has complained about, wait until you are able to go with perfect self-control and poise: in order to reason and talk the matter over with great refinement and social grace. Don't tell the teacher what to do; go to ascertain the facts. You will also want the classmates of your child to respect you, else he will suffer. If you have done well, you will come away wiser and better able to understand your child. (My bulletin "Helping the Child Succeed at School" may be had by sending a self-addressed, stamped envelope to me in care of this newspaper.)

Your Birthday

by STELLA

THURSDAY, OCTOBER 29 —

Born today, you men are so solidly reserved and dignified that you might borrow a little more of the "devil-may-care" attitude rightfully belonging to your birth sign. You are inclined to take life just a little too seriously. The reformer in you has driven out the adventurer and the result could turn to be just a little "stuffy" if you don't watch out. Bring out that sense of "deering-do" with which you were born and give it an airing now and then.

Possibly restrictions in childhood will have something to do with your serious attitude toward life. While very young, you will have enough mischief to make you a target for parental discipline. But don't let all of the fun-loving attitude toward life be knocked out of you or you will regret it later on in life.

Strangely enough, for one of your determination you are much too inclined to get settled into routine and stay with it until you become so geared to it that you just don't have the interest, anymore, to break away. But if you do get out on your own, you may be surprised at how far you can go!

Wed someone who can keep alive the natural gaiety in your spirit. You women, on the other hand, seem to have learned how to retain it longer than you men. But you, too, can sometimes get a little too concerned with the serious side of life. If you wed young and raise a family, you will be happy and contented — and keep young, yourself.

To find what the stars have in store for tomorrow, select your birthday star and read the corresponding paragraph. Let your birthday star be your daily guide.

Friday, October 30

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) — Make sure that you finish up some important job begun earlier this week. It will give you a rare satisfaction.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 22) — If you can "clear the decks" today, then you could look forward to a really relaxing week end.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 23-Jan. 20) — Mechanical gimmicks can prove trying at times. Be sure you really know how to operate a new one.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21-Feb. 19) — Emotions have no place in your life today. Get them well under control and make calm, logical decisions.

PISCES (Feb. 20-Mar. 20) — If the first of the month saw you on a new job, take stock of things now and be sure things are just as you want them.

ARIES (Mar. 21-Apr. 20) — Something which seems a misfortune today actually may prove to be a blessing, tomorrow! Just be patient.

Taurus (Apr. 21-May. 21) — You can be led right down the wrong track if you listen to hearsay rather than waiting for the facts.

GEMINI (May 22-June 21) — Put on that pair of velvet gloves! Over but not out! Your sense of humor could be put to use today.

CANCER (June 22-July 23) — Avoid a quarrel, even if someone is trying to bait you. Your sense of humor could be put to use today.

LEO (July 24-Aug. 23) — Old friends may drop in to see you. Plan to enjoy yourself in their company. Have fun!

VIRGO (Aug. 24-Sept. 23) — Even when you know you are right, a little concession may be better than being obstinate against opposition.

LIBRA (Sept. 24-Oct. 23) — Keep both feet on the ground today and be as practical as you can. Day dreams are no good now.

or don't have with a boy and you're likely to find yourself out on the end of a limb.

Honesty is the best policy every time. It keeps your lines from getting tangled up. And tangled is what this girl is, all because she was afraid of appearing "not in the know." She writes:

"DEAR MISS WOODWARD: The Other night the boy I like asked me if 'was going to a hayride they were having. I said I didn't know. I don't go to his school, so I didn't know anything about the hayride, but I sure would like to go with him. How can I get him to ask me?"

You missed one very ripe moment all because you didn't give him the right answer. "Is there going to be a hayride?" would have given him a chance to tell you all about it. "It sounds like fun," would have indicated your enthusiasm for the idea. You just might have been invited by him, then and there.

Instead, you were afraid of seeming not to know all about it. And your answer indicated that you might be considering some other boy's invitation. The doubt you raised in his mind just might keep him from mentioning the hayride again. In which case you'll have to bring up the subject yourself!

with a gay and inquiring. "How are the plans for the hayride coming along?" That would show him no one else has talked with you about it. And just might earn you the bid you want—if he intended asking you in the first place.

A Lie Won't Help

"DEAR MISS WOODWARD: Johnny broke off with me just before school started and I haven't been able to pull myself together since. Recently another boy asked me out and I turned him down. He asked me if I'd broken off with Johnny and I said 'no' because I want to get him back. If I go out with this other boy I'll damage my chance of getting Johnny back, and if I stay home I'll just think and cry my eyes out. Please advise me."

You deliberately misrepresented the state of affairs between you and Johnny, giving this other boy the impression that all was sweetness and light and there was no point in his asking you for other dates. So where are you now? Johnny broke off with you. Your staying home crying and dateless won't bring him back. Admitting to everybody that you haven't seen Johnny lately will keep you in the running—and remind Johnny of what he's missing!

ELIZABETH WOODWARD SAYS:

If You Don't Know Admit You Don't

When you pretend to be what you aren't, you risk being shot full of holes. Admit enthusiastically, "Oh, yes, I've read it—wasn't it wonderful?" about a book you've never even heard of—and where are you? Pinned down to discussing the thing in detail—with your back-tracking in considerable confusion. Pretend you know all about a party you hadn't even heard was cooking, and you'll find yourself talking nonsense. Deliberately misrepresent a dating relationship you have

Path to Shopping Center to be Ready For Fairless Hills Residents Shortly

Vital Stretch May Be Open In December

Fairless Hills residents can expect to drive directly to the shopping center, "sometime in December, barring weather and trouble," State Construction Inspector Robert A. Schaffer said today.

The state plans to have the section of Oxford Valley road from Trenton road to the shopping center in operation by that time. Construction on the road, which was started in September, has made it necessary for shoppers to take the round-about Olds boulevard route to the shopping area.

This stretch of road, .38 miles in length, is under the supervision of the Pennsylvania Department of Highways. James D. Morrissey, Philadelphia, is the contractor for the construction.

In Charge of Danherst
The Philadelphia firm is also handling construction for the section of the road from the shopping center to Newportville road. Danherst Corp. is in charge of this section of the road and will turn it over to the townships as soon as it is finished.

Work will be completed on this stretch within the next few weeks, according to a spokesman for Morrissey. It will then be inspected by township officers and dedicated. The road will provide a direct link between Levittown and Fairless Hills.

H. A. Humbert, assistant district construction engineer for the state, is in charge of the state-controlled end of the road. Schaffer and Construction Inspector Donald Lee are his on-the-job representatives.

Road 45 Feet Wide
When completed, the road will be 45 feet wide, with four lanes. There is an 80 foot ordained right of way, except at the bridges, where it stretches out to 100 feet.

The bridge, which was built by Morrissey for Danherst Corp., is one of the most interesting aspects of the job. It is the first prestressed concrete bridge in Lower Bucks County. Except for the railing and the foundation cables, there is no steel in the bridge. The floor of the bridge has concrete instead of steel beams. The bridge floor was completed in one day, a process that normally would take close to 10 days.

Activity under the road is almost as busy as the traffic that will travel over it. On-site sewage disposal lines were installed before road construction was begun. Telephone conduits, gas lines and a water main run under the road.

A representative of the telephone company remains at the site of the construction, to make sure the phone cables are not torn up during construction. When the job was first started, some of the cables were torn up, cutting off phone service in some sections of Fairless Hills for 24 hours.

State Inspector Schaffer said that plans do not include the construction of homes along the state section of the road. It is slated to be a park, he said.

L'town Installs New Heating Unit At Civic Center

Al Kohl, chairman of the House Committee of the Levittown Civic Association has announced that a new heating system at the Civic Center is now in use. The Watts house was formerly heated by coal. When the Committee discussed the possibility of converting to oil, the members contacted businessmen to explain the situation. The businessmen came forward swiftly to help solve the problem.

An oil burner was donated and installed through the courtesy of the Bucks County Driving School. The oil was donated by Meenan Oil Co., of Levittown.

The following firms donated materials and labor:

House, building materials, chairs and stove — Wm. Levitt & Sons, Inc.

Electrical work and materials — Morris Electric, Levittown.

Building materials, furniture and electrical fixtures — Levittown Home Improvement Co.

Signs — Slater Signs, Bristol Pike.

Fireplaces and Bulletin Board — Picone Bros., Tullytown.

Garbage Collection Service — O'Connor and Co., Levittown.

Guard Service — Levittown Guard Service.

Curtains — Womens Club, Levittown.

Lawn and Shrub Care — Levittown Garden Club.

House Furnishings — Levittown residents.

The committee extended thanks to all of these and others. Nearly five hundred persons use facilities of the Civic Center each week.

CHICAGO (INS)—One man was killed and 10 others injured today when an oil barge, the Blue Comet, exploded in Lake Michigan, three-quarters of a mile off Chicago's far South Side. The ship was carrying 500,000 gallons of gasoline.

Road Men Confer

TWO OF THE MEN at work on the section of Oxford Valley road that runs from Trenton road to the Fairless Hills Shopping Center, consult blueprints of the construction, Robert A. Schaffer, Doylestown, state construction inspector, points out an interesting aspect of the work to Leo Meehan, Philadelphia, field engineer on the project.

Xmas Long Gone, Wine Bibber Real Gone on $200 Fine

DOYLESTOWN—Henry P. King, 46-year-old grandfather, who admitted that he had too much Christmas cheer on Christmas Eve and that red wine smelled so bad but he drank it anyway, was sentenced to pay a $200 fine and the costs for drunken driving by President Judge Hiram H. Keller in criminal court here.

"You say the wine smelled bad and not withstanding you kept on drinking it until you were intoxicated?" the Court asked.

"Yes, Your Honor," said King, an iron bridge worker, who explained he had nothing to eat because he wanted to go home to see "Mom," who lives in Wilmington, Del., and eat with her.

Bristol Township Patrolman Ernest Nuskey testified that at the Bristol-Burlington bridge intersection King's car collided with another vehicle.

"Millions of cars seemed to be on the highway that night and I don't exactly remember just how it happened," said the defendant, who said he was separated from his wife, but is a grandfather.

King was employed at the Fairless Works in Falls township and had left work early to attend a Yuletide party.

"The Court takes into consideration your honesty on the witness stand," said President Judge Keller.

Little League Wrong? Opinions Are Divided

"The Little League is exploiting the youngsters in it," Charles Lewis sports writer, told the Mens Club of Temple Shalom at its Sports Night.

"The sponsors insist on always keeping their names before the public, and emphasizing winning as the only aim of the League," he said.

Lewis accused the coaches of hurting the game by their commercial attitude. He cited the jockeying of players and pitchers, regardless of feelings in order to win. "Little Leaguers are taught to emulate the commercialism of the major leagues," he stated.

Also on the panel discussing the pros and cons of the League were Monroe Lanes and Irving Steinberg, presidents of the Levittown organizations.

According to Lanes, the only recreation outlet in Levittown is the Little League. "The children here have no other sports to participate in. The Tullytown section provides recreation through its midget football league, but it is not open to all of Levittown."

Lanes added that the Little League is organized for any and all children who want to join. "We make room for whoever comes out," he said, "for the purpose of Little League is to teach the youngsters how to play, not only to win."

Steinberg stated that accusations that the Little League causes serious emotional setbacks to the child are not valid.

"Such experiences are good for the child," he observed. "They learn to grow by these experiences."

Local Contests In Lower Bucks

THE BRISTOL COURIER as part of its program to give readers full coverage of the Lower Bucks County area will run complete data on election contests in the townships and boroughs of Lower Bucks County. This series is designed to inform the reader and bring him up to date on the elections as they apply to his area. The series will conclude on Monday, Nov. 2, the day before county-wide balloting begins. Unofficial returns from each voting district in each borough and township in Lower Bucks County, as well as returns for all county-wide contests, will be carried in the Nov. 4 issue of THE BRISTOL COURIER.

Hulmeville

Voters in Hulmeville Borough won't have to furrow their brows when they enter the polling booths at the firehouse to cast their ballots for local officers in Tuesday's general election. Most of the candidates are running on both tickets.

Burgess Leon R. Comly is running for re-election on Republican and Democratic tickets.

Up for re-election on both tickets to Borough Council are Orville H.

Jersey To Widen Bridge Entrance; Speed Up Traffic

New Toll Booths To Be Set Up On Plaza Approach

To handle the tremendous increase in traffic on the Burlington-Bristol bridge, the Burlington County Bridge Commission today announced it would:

Eliminate the curve on the New Jersey side of the span roadway. Widen the present bridge approach into a plaza. Remove the single toll booth at the center of the span. Erect four new toll booths on the plaza.

Howard R. Yocum, commission chairman, said the project would begin as soon as the required land for the plaza is obtained from the State Highway Department and the federal government.

The state and federal land is needed for the creation of the plaza.

The present roadway now leading to the bridge is 40 feet wide. This will be widened to 90 feet for a distance of 600 feet and will serve as the plaza. Four toll booths, capable of handling five lanes of traffic, will be placed on the plaza.

Leo Schaeffer, general manager of the span, said the improvements would enable the bridge to triple its present capacity. He added that the span then would be able to handle 6,000,000 vehicles a year.

"We have been trying to install these improvements ever since the county assumed operation of the Burlington-Bristol and Tacony - Palmyra bridges," Yocum said. "But we were stymied because the State Highway Department was unable to convey its land to us."

Open Up

MRS. BARRY NEMCOFF, 439 Thornridge drive, Levittown, feeds another scuttle of coal to the pot-bellied stove which is the only source of heat at the William Penn Center, Fallsington. The stove is on the way out, however, as teenagers from 12 Bucks County Quaker monthly meetings plan to raise money for a new heating system for the center.

Note of Service Tints Festive Eve of Many

"Hundreds of Lower Bucks County children are lined up in ten different communities to bring a note of service to others into this year's Halloween," according to Kent Larrabee, executive secretary of the Friends Service Association.

Preparations for the Friendly Beggars Night program have been going on for more than a month under the direction of the Friendship Barrels Committee of the FCA, which is sponsoring the project.

Fifteen hundred identification stickers with the red and black star have been distributed through schools, churches, clubs, and homes to boys and girls who are looking for a treat for others instead of themselves.

It's A Neat Trick
Rather than "Trick or Treat," the slogan is "It's a neat trick and a fine treat to collect needed articles for families overseas." The committee believes that in addition to helping places like Korea, children will get a feeling of satisfaction as well as fun from helping others.

According to one committee spokesman: "We hope one by-product will be the creation of an atmosphere of good will in the community, that will tend to cut down on the destructive mischief."

Need Clean Clothing
Donors of clothing are urged by the committee to make sure that all clothing is clean.

"Soiled clothing not only has to be washed or dry-cleaned at great expense, but also, in a collection, it will soil other clean material. Clothing should also be useable, as we don't want to send ragged clothing overseas. It should be mended and have some good wear in it."

Children are instructed not to take money.

Taxes, Schools Are Major Issue in Tullytown Campaign

Taxes and schools are major issues in the Tullytown borough election, as Republicans hope to regain control of borough council. Statements and charges have come from both sides of the political fence as candidates wind up their campaign.

The Republican party has promised to visit every voter in the borough, regardless of political affiliation, to present reasons for a straight Republican vote. The Democrats have made every attempt to get people to vote.

The Democrats have accused the Republicans of wanting to lower the mercantile tax at the expense of homemakers. The Republicans claim they wish to amend the tax law so money from the tax can be put to immediate use for the borough.

Programs Set

Each party has drawn up a 10-point school program as three School Directors will be elected on Nov. 3. Both groups have promised to expedite school building programs and the return to single sessions.

Election tactics have been criticized on both sides. The Republicans have charged the Democrats with attempting to buy support in the coming election in return for support in next year's gubernatorial contest. This accusation was denied by the Democrats, who charged the Republicans with attempting to keep voters from registering, a charge that was also denied.

Candidates for the council include: Edward B. Boyer (R), John D. Chase (R), John Silvi, Jr. (R), Daniel J. Mabin (R), Joseph Cutchinal (D), John Lucisano (D), Oscar S. Bortner (D), and Michael A. Piroli (D).

Byron W. Purdy (R), and John Steen (D), are candidates for Justices of the Peace. Candidates for Burgess are Frederick Rentschler (R) and Walter Strouse (D), candidate for re-election. Rubin Weiner (R) and Arthur F. Leigh (D) candidates for Tax Collector. Borough Auditor will be selected from contestants Alvin E. Rubenstein (R) and A. Patrick Brennan (D).

Two School Directors will be chosen for four year terms from candidates Ralph W. Hart (R), Benjamin B. Kline (R), William Leigh (D) and Michele Kahn (D). Gerald S. Paul (R) and Roger F. Witt (D) are candidates for the six-year term School Director office.

A Judge of Elections will be selected from aspirants Kenneth Smith (R) and Mary T. Cucknell (D). John G. Redline (R) and Mary Lovett (D) are candidates for Inspector of Elections.

Extra Ballot

Tullytown voters will be handed an extra ballot when they go to vote at Tullytown fire station, Main street. The special ballot will give them the opportunity to vote on whether or not they want to allow Sunday movies in the borough.

The Provisional League of Women Voters of Bristol Township has prepared a list of all the candidates, with information about their occupations, education and experiences. The information has been supplied by the candidates themselves, according to Mrs. Philip Brown, voters service chairman.

The group will also provide transportation and baby sitting services on election day, so voters may get to the polls. Tullytown residents interested in these services are asked to call 6-6346.

Tullytown Republican Candidates

Tullytown Democratic Candidates

Going in Circles

If traffic along area highways aggravates you now—well, bigger and better aggravations are in store. The turnpike will be completed up to Edgely by this time next year, and even more fun will be provided. Nothing has been done by the borough to prepare for the added influx of traffic that will come this way, despite the COURIER survey of traffic conditions that was given to them last year.

Traffic circles will be badly needed by next year for continuous movement of traffic. And the two spots they're needed most in are where Route 413 crosses Route 13, and the intersection of Route 13 and Green Lane. If this isn't done—well, as the ads say: Happy Motor-ing.

Traveling Traveler

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel U. Gratz—he heads the Bristol Travel Service, 443 Mill street—are currently attending the 23rd annual convention of the American Society of Travel Agencies. The confab is in Rome, Italy. The Gratzes, who also operate the Trenton Travel Service, are accompanied by William J. Veitch of the Trenton office. All three are staying at the Hotel Continental.

Information Please

A Voter's Information Booth, sponsored by the Voters Service Committee of the Provisional League of Women Voters of Bristol Township, opens today at Penn Fruit, Levittown Shopping Center. The booth will be open for three days: today from 12 to 9 p. m., tomorrow from 12 to 10 p. m., and Saturday from 9 a. m. to 6 p. m.

One question, though, the women won't answer is "Who shall I vote for?"

What In the World!

A very odd precipitation fell in Lower Bucks County recently. It was in droplet form, splashed on our glasses, and was wet—but we didn't know what it was. Whatever it was, it was only a mere splattering of it, but with the nose for news that we're supposed to have, we raced to call the weather bureau. They were a little confused too. Didn't recognize the description. Then, finally, a man who had been on the bureau for many, many years, told us, in a quavering voice, "Waal, that there stuff sounds like it might be rain." "When we didn't recognize the word, the old-timer explained that many years back—before our time—there had been a lot of "rain" in the area. He said not to worry about it, though, because it wouldn't be back for some time.

Good Neighbors

When the Fallsington library heard that the Levittown Civic Association was planning to open a library in the Center, the library immediately donated 700 of its own books.

Total books donated were 1,000, so it's safe to say that without Fallsington's help, the Levittown library's opening would have been greatly delayed.

Here 'n' There

Calvin Klebe, prexy of the Levittown Chess club, invites anyone who is interested to join. Intracub tournaments and round robins are planned for the group. They meet tomorrow night at the Community Center at 8 . . . At the panel discussion Tuesday night in Levittown (about Little Leaguers and the charge that it is more interested in winning than in the child who is participating) not one coach, player or father of a Little Leaguer in Levittown showed up.

Borough to Study Plea for Support Of Deeper River

Morrisville Common Council has referred the request for borough support for the deepening of the Delaware River channel to its ordinance committee. The request was presented by the Morrisville Businessmen's Association.

Council members asked for further information on the proposed deepening before action on the request.

At the recommendation of the light committee, the council authorized five additional 6,000 lumens street lights on the south side of East Bridge street, between Pennsylvania and Delmoor avenues. They voted to change 15 lights on Pennsylvania avenue from Post road to North Lafayette avenue from 1,000 to 2,500 lumens.

An ordinance making it illegal to discard refrigerators or any air tight boxes with doors attached was passed on its title.
